AND UNIVERSAL TRAINING

As the True Solution of the Defense Problem—Regards Secretary Garrison's Program for a Continental Army As Sound Initial Step, Consistent
and Intelligent.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, Jan. 22.—Unqualified endorsement of the administration's continental army plan was given today by Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war in the Taft administration, in an address before the National Security League.

Declaring himself in favor of compulsory universal military service as the true solution of defense problem, Mr. Stimson said he regarded the program now advanced by Secretary Garrison as the sound initial step.

"If congress is not ready yet to sanction universal training," he said, "the measures which are enacted should be those which, so far as they go, are in accord with this great fundamental duty and which,
as time passes, and experience ripens, will lead most naturally to the establishment of such a system."

"Instead of ourselves performing the most vital duty of citizenship," said Mr. Stimson, "we have been hiring other men to do it for us.
Other democracies have been more consistent and intelligent and today
they are reaping the advantage of their action not only in their national security but in the stability of character which their training has given to the individual."

"One of the propositions which is being seriously urged before congress is that we should pay our state militia from the national treasury
and should attempt to develop them into our federal citizens' army while they still retain their legal character as a state force. Four years ago when it was clear that no other force of federal reserves could be obtained from congress, I reluctantly gave my approval to a pay bill in order to obtain the advantages of training and discipline which the measure provided. Further study of the subject and situation evoked by the war have made it clear to me
that such legislation would be a mistake."

"Under the federal legislation
the national guard or organized militia is primarily a state force instead of a national reserve and I do not believe that any effective national citizens' army can be created out of a force dominated by 48 sovereign-ties. For nearly 15 years strenuous efforts have been made by the Federal government as well as by the state authorities to increase the number of the guard, yet it has remained nearly stationary. The ratio of its enlistments to our population is so far below that in other English speaking countries as to make it clear that some fundamental defect
is at work."

"It seems to me that these effects
can be traced directly to the fact that the national guard is in fact a state military force which we are also requiring to do duty for the national government."

"What is even worse, there has gradually grown up among our laboring classes the feeling that the only soldiers with whom they are practically acquainted, represent a different class of the community
and are maintained for the purpose of being used against them. Instead of regarding the militiaman as a cit-

ADMIRAL AT ODDS WITH NAVY HEADS

Vice Admiral Henry T. Mayo (top)
and Admiral Frank F. Fletcher.

Admiral Frank F. Fletcher, commanding the Atlantic fleet, will turn over his command to Vice Admiral Henry T. Mayo because of differences that have developed between Admiral Fletcher and Rear Admiral
A. M. Knight, head of the army war college, at Newport. The trouble arose over the decision in the recent naval "war game" and came to a head when the war college sent charges to Secretary of the Navy
Daniels that during the "war game" Admiral Fletcher had "violated the fundamentals of strategy."

MURDERER OF DOLORES EVANS IS ARRAIGNED

FEARING ANOTHER DEMONSTRATION
JUDGE ORDERS COURT ROOM CLEARED.

Yesterday Thousands Cried "Kill Him." When Bianchetti Came to Cleveland.

Cleveland, Jan. 22.—Louis Bianchetti, brought back from New York yesterday afternoon, was arraigned in court here today on the charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of Dolores Evans, 19, actress, strangled to death in a hotel here two weeks ago.

Blanchetti pleaded not guilty.
Judge Thomas Kennedy, fearing a repetition of the demonstration which occurred when the prisoner reached the city yesterday, ordered the courtroom cleared prior to the arraignment and allowed no pictures to be taken during the hearing. Only a small crowd, compared to the thousands who shouted
"kill him!" on his arrival yesterday,
was on hand when he was led to the county jail this morning.

A dispute between different groups of friends of the prisoner as to who shall be his counsel, was to be settled today by the court allowing the prisoner to select his own attorney.

In Hold of Steamer Loaded With Supplies for Russian Government

FORCED VESSEL BACK TO PORT

Mystery Surrounds This Latest of Fires

ABOARD MUNITIONS SHIPS

Officers and Crew of Sygna,
Do Not Know of Explosion, But Are Unable to Give Explanation That Might Prove That Fire Was Or Was Not of Incendiary Origin.

New York, Jan. 22.—Mystery surrounded the fire which forced the Norwegian freight steamer Sygna to put back to this port today after having sailed yesterday for Archangel, with a large cargo consigned to the Russian government. The fire boat William J. Gaynor met the freighter at Quarantine and after quantities of steam had been turned into the Sygna's forehold from which clouds of smoke were pouring when she reached port, it was believed the fire was under control.

Officers and members of the freighter's crew said that, so far as they knew no explosion preceded the fire but they were unable to offer
an explanation of how the blaze originated in a hold which they said contained only structural steel and railway material.

When asked if there was any evidence indicating the fire had been
of incendiary origin the officers said that "it was too soon to make an investigation," and declined to comment upon the unusual features of the blaze.

Members of the Sygna's crew who covered the high yesterday, said
there was no indication of fire when the freighter sailed, and that it was early yesterday evening before one of the watch saw smoke seeping from around the hatch. The cover was hurriedly taken off and while no flames could be seen a great quantity of smoke rose from the hold. The captain and officers were mystified
concerning the origin of the blaze,
and it was decided to put back at once.

Owing to the tightly packed mass
of steel beneath decks, the crew of the fire boat found much difficulty in fighting the blaze, and in attempting to enter the hold. It was impossible to locate the fire or learn the nature of the material that was burning and for this reason the fire boat continued to pour steam into the hold for several hours.

The Sygna will be docked, partly unloaded and thoroughly examined
to determine the cause of the blaze.
The fire on the Sygna is the latest of a long series of fires and explosions which have occurred on vessels shortly after their sailing from this and other ports with munitions or supplies for the allies.

On numerous cases it has been noticed that the fires were caused by incendiary bombs or fuses but several of the cases have gone unexplained or at least so far as the public is concerned.

Snowslide Strikes Train Sweeping Cars From Track; Many Believed to Be Dead

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 22.—Great Northern Train No. 25, the Cascade limited from Spokane, was struck by a snowslide near Corea Station on the west slope of the Cascades near the summit, this morning.

The train was standing still when
hit. The dining car and the day coach received the full force of the avalanche, and were carried down
an embankment three hundred feet.
The slide came from the Cascade tunnel and Great Northern officials said it is almost the exact spot where a train was swept from the tracks
February 25, 1910.

At that time two Great Northern passenger trains which had been delayed two weeks by snow slides in front and rear, were struck by an avalanche at night and carried several hundred feet into a gulch. Nearly all the persons on the trains perished.

The bodies were not all recovered
for several weeks.

After this accident the railroad
began construction of concrete snow sheds at a cost of millions of dollars. The railroad engineers believed they had protected all the most dangerous places.

All the persons in the two cars
were reported as killed or injured.
Physicians have been sent from Everett.

The train had been stopped by a small slide, which had covered the track.

Workmen had just completed removing the snow and debris from the rails and the train was about to proceed when an avalanche thundered down from the mountainside. The dining car and day coach were struck squarely and swept away. The other cars and the engine were left on the track.

The first passenger reached in the day coach, a small boy, was severely injured. The next two passengers were dead.

Five employees in the dining car were believed to be dead. Three hours after the wreck, it is impossible to say how many passengers were in the day coach.

Two negro porters and a trainman are known to be dead. The dining car is reported burning. The cars in the gulch are not covered by snow as in the 1910 disaster. At that time many of the dead were suffocated. Cries for help from the cars in the gulch can be heard on the track above.

FOURTEEN DEAD IN POSSIBLE TOLL IN REPORT AT OFFICES.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 22.—Possibly fourteen dead in the Great Northern wreck at Corea, was the report received at 12:45 p. m. at the offices of Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad. Mr. Hill stated that reports on the wreck received in his office up to this time were belated.

Death Decreed to Americans at a Convention of Mexican Bandits; Rancher Killed by Cattle Thieves

Washington, Jan. 22.—Revelations that Mexican bandit leaders had, in convention assembled, decreed death to Americans in Mexico
as well as armed opposition to the de facto government, was the outstanding feature in the Mexican situation here today. It becomes known that the agreement was reached at a formal convention held near Cordoba, Mexico, in November,
according to information which came to the state department at that time. Participants in the agreement are said to have included representatives of Villa, Zapata, Argumedia, Higinia Aguilar and others.

The murder of the American mining men by Mexican bandits at Santa Ysabel recently, is believed to have been carried out pursuant to the Cordoba agreement.

AKERS' COMPANION

Tells of Ranchman's Murder as He Was Trying to Escape.

Ysabela, Texas, Jan. 22.—Douglas Downs, companion of Bert Akers, who was killed yesterday by Mexican cattle and horse thieves just below the border of San Lorenzo, Chihuahua, declared today that five Mexicans fired two hundred or more shots at them. He said neither he nor Akers was armed. Downs said the Mexican who killed Akers first fired point blank at him (Downs) but missed. Downs then hid in a Mexican rancher's chicken coop

where he found a flint lock musket.
With this he prepared to defend himself but the slayers abandoned
the chase.

Douglas Downs, Akers' companion, survived a hail of bullets, as he and Akers, riding one horse, sought frantically to escape. They were unarmed.

Juan Barrios, a Mexican secret service man, detailed to aid the young Americans in the search for six cows stolen from Mrs. J. D. Murphy, Akers' sister-in-law, was relieved of his weapons by the Mexicans, but not harmed.

Akers was 27 years old, and leaves a wife and three children, a boy and two girls, the oldest of whom is four years of age. Downs is a cowboy, 20 years of age, and a wild-west rider.

Mrs. Murphy, whose cows were stolen last Saturday, lost her husband eight weeks ago. The Mexicans who stole the cows had previously driven over the border several horses belonging to her.

"I am pursued by bad luck," she said today, breaking down finally,
after spending a night caring for Mrs. Akers, her widowed sister.

Akers came from Kentucky eight years ago. His wife, Mrs. Murphy, and Downs came here from Mogolton, a mountain region of New Mexico.

Texas rangers spent last night
lying out on the border hoping that some of the Mexicans involved would come across the border. Reports from Juarez had stated that only two of the Mexicans out of the five who attacked the Americans had been caught by Mexican soldiers.

BRUTAL MURDER

Of American Ranchman Seeking Cows Stolen by Mexicans.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 22.—The tense situation here produced by the Santa Ysabel massacre more than a week ago, today was complicated when details of the killing of Bert Akers, an American ranchman from Ysleta, Texas, became known. Akers was slain
by Bernardo Duran, a Mexican cattle rustler, in a fight that occurred
yesterday afternoon, at San Lorenzo, Chihuahua, a village a few miles below the border. With a companion Douglas Lawrence and a Mexican police official, Akers sought to recover cattle said to have been stolen
last Monday at Ysleta, when Duran, with his brother Frederico, opened fire from the roof of their house.

General Gabriel Gavira, commandant at Juarez from army headquarters gave out a statement,

NO SUCCESS

Of Prosecution in Attempts
to Get Negroes' Confessions Before Jury

IN TRIAL OF MRS. ELIZ-ABETH MOHR

Court Rules They Cannot Be Used Against Her

TRIAL RESUMES MONDAY

After a Saturday Recess
During Which Defendant
Rests Herself, Confident That Early Next Week
Evidence In Her Behalf
Will Be Introduced By Her Lawyers.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 22.—Mrs.
Elizabeth Mohr, who has been on trial for two weeks with Cecil Brown and Henry Spellman, the two negroes whom she is accused of having hired to kill her husband, Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, last August, rested over the Saturday court recess today in the assurance that next week would see the beginning of the introduction of evidence in her defense. The testimony for the prosecution was understood to be nearly ended when court adjourned yesterday.

Another unsuccessful effort was made by the prosecution Friday to have the alleged confessions of the accused negroes admitted as evidence against her. The court had previously ruled out this evidence as affecting Mrs. Mohr, but Attorney General Rice moved that, in view of the testimony of George W. Healy, Dr. Mohr's negro chauffeur, all the evidence which had been admitted
only as concerning Cecil Victor Brown and Henry H. Spellman, the negro defendants, be now considered by the jury against the widow as well.

Judge Sterns replied that he was not inclined to change his previous ruling. The Attorney General said that he would renew his motion on Monday, when the case is to be resumed, and would submit authoritative decisions in support of it. The state expects to rest its case Monday.

At the hour of adjournment yesterday afternoon Miss Gertrude Stevenson of Boston, a newspaper writer, was on the stand. She testified that she interviewed the three negroes—Brown, Spellman and Healy—in jail, and that Brown wrote something on a slip of paper
which he said "was to be his alibi."

Miss Stevenson said he asked her to give the paper to his sister, and also requested that the witness get Mrs.
Mohr to send him an attorney.
"Brown told me to tell Mrs. Mohr not to say anything about the motorcycle," the witness said.
"Adding that he would say his wife
saved up money enough to buy it.
Heals told me also to tell Mrs.
Mohr that if she'll stick to us, we'll stick to her."

A number of domestic servants
formerly employed by Dr. and Mrs.
Mohr were put on the stand to testify regarding the attitude of Mrs.
Mohr toward her husband before and after their separation. Two of the servants declared that on Chris-mas morning, 1913, they heard Dr.
Mohr say that he "wanted to make up with Mrs. Mohr," but that the latter refused.

Miners Will Make Vigorous Effort to Organize Fields In the State of Kentucky

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.—Conditions in the mining fields of Kentucky received the attention of the convention of the United Mine Workers of America today when the resolutions committee made a further report. The committee reported two resolutions urging the international organization to prosecute a vigorous campaign to organize fully what is called the Hopkins county coal fields of that state.

The resolutions were referred to the international executive board.

W. O. Smith, international organizer and George Baker, executive member from Kentucky, declared that the non-union men in that state
are being paid a lower rate for mining than those in any other state.

Operators employing union labor,
they said, had notified the union in Kentucky that they cannot longer compete with companies employing non-union miners and that if the Union Mine Workers do not organize the coal diggers in the Hopkins field in order to make wages uniform, the operators employing union miners will have to insist up-

Toledo Detective, Indicted for Accepting Money from Resort Keeper, Makes Denial

Toledo, O., Jan. 22.—Lewis B.
Tracy, captain of detectives, against whom two secret indictments were made public late yesterday, having been returned by the grand jury September 20 last, today emphatically denied his guilt. Tracy appeared at the prosecutor's office last night and furnished $1000 bond.

Testimony, it is understood, of Nellie Schwinn, former resort keeper, was responsible for the indictments.

"The whole story is a lie," Tracy
said today. "I never took a cent
from the Schwinn woman or any other resort keeper. The closing up of her place when it became known that a ward of a prominent banker

had been wronged there is responsible for the whole thing."

The indictments charge Tracy accepted $500 unlawfully on one occasion from the Schwinn woman as "influence money," and that he attempted to extort $50 on another occasion.

Captain Tracy was suffering
a nervous breakdown when the grand jury made its report September 20. He collapsed in his office after it was learned that the jury was investigating police graft. For this reason the jury recommended that the indictments be kept secret.
Tracy's condition is improved, but he has not yet resumed his duties.

Prosecutor John D'Alton announced that further investigations will probably result in similar indictments.

on their employees accepting a reduction in wages.

Old age pensions caused a long discussion with the result that the international executive board was instructed to investigate the subject of old age pension laws with the object of having either a federal act passed by congress or having the states enact such laws. The resolutions committee reported a resolution urging the membership in the various states to endeavor to enlist
the support of organized labor toward the enactment of old age pension laws.

This did not satisfy some delegates and an amendment was proposed that the mine workers draft a bill for introduction in congress.

This was also opposed by a number of delegates who said they had been informed that a federal law
would be unconstitutional.

Former State Senator William Green, of Ohio, secretary treasurer of the mine workers, suggested that better results could be obtained if the miners drafted a uniform bill

CHRISTIANS AS WELL AS JEWS URGED TO GIVE

Four New York and Chicago men recently donated to the American Jewish Relief Committee, for the sufferers from the war, $400,000. The amount donated by the Jews and Christians in the United States during the past several months has reached the $1,000,000 mark.

January 27 has been designated by a proclamation by President Wilson as "Jewish Relief Day." Newark Jews and Christians alike are urged to donate to the cause and to send their contributions either to the Advocate, American Tribune or the Great Western store, in South Park Place.

In a recent address in New York, the Right Rev. David H. Greer, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York, said, "I am here tonight to voice by my presence, for whatever my presence may be worth and also to persuade others toward that sympathy for the suffering starving Jewish people; men, women and children on the other side of the sea." I am moved to do this as an act of justice.

Plans are under way to issue a volume, which shall include the names of the contributors and the amounts subscribed by them, to commemorate the most significant day in the history of American Israel.

FIVE CHILDREN WALKED FROM SANDUSKY INSTITUTION TO THEIR HOME

Parents too Poor to Keep Them—Elder 12 years; Younger six—Covered Eighteen Miles.

(Associated Press Telegram) Norwalk, O., Jan. 22.—Five little children, hungry, not for something to eat, but for their mother's love, arrived here this morning, after walking eighteen miles last night from the Sandusky children's home where they had been sent because their parents were too poor to give them the proper care.

At the institution where they were sent, they cried for their parents until yesterday. Then they slipped away. They walked all night, but they were not afraid of goblins because they were going home. All they feared was that some one would catch them and take them back to the children's home. So when anybody came along they hid in the woods.

A party of searchers hunting for the children in the vicinity of Sandusky was called in this morning when it was learned that the children had arrived at their real home.

The children are Elizabeth, Phoebe, Ida, Lester and Mary Rice. The oldest is twelve years and the youngest six.

WILD ALL THROUGH.

The American Bay Lynx Is an Animal That Can't Be Tamed.

We call him the American wildcat, although he is of a different species from the wildcat of Europe. His real name is bay lynx, and he is closely associated with that other animal of America, the Canadian lynx. The European wildcat is really the ancestor of the domestic cat, but you can't domesticate the bay lynx of America. He is wild all the way through.

He gets his front name from his color, which is a yellowish brown or bay. His tail is short, which has given him another name—bobcat. Unlike most cats, he is a good swimmer, and his hind feet are partly webbed.

The bay lynx frequents mountain woodlands in the less settled portions of America, and sometimes he makes his presence dreaded by his raids on poultry. He is also a persistent robber of birds' nests, and he will eat both birds and eggs. He will also devour squirrels, rabbits, wild turkeys and anything that isn't too big for him to kill.

His appetite for animals has led people to fear him, although he will seldom attack human beings—only when he thinks he has to defend himself. He usually builds a nest of moss and leaves in a hollow tree.—Philadelphia North American.

SCIENCE OF NOSES.

In Size and Shape, It Is Said, Is Shown the Wearer's Character.

Nasography reveals the character, habits and inclinations of people by a simple inspection of noses. According to the system, the nose should be as long as possible, and this is a sign of merit, power and genius. Examples—Napoleon and Caesar, both of whom had large noses. A straight nose denotes a just, serious and energetic mind, the Roman nose a propensity for adventure and a wide nose with open nostrils is a mark of great sensuality. A cleft nose shows benevolence. It was the nose of St. Vincent de Paul. The curved, fleshy nose is a mark of domination and cruelty. Catherine de Medici and Elizabeth of England had noses of this kind. The curved, thin nose, on the contrary, is a mark of a brilliant mind, but vain and disposed to be ironical. It is the nose of a dreamer, a poet or a critic. If the line of the nose is re-entrant—that is, if the nose is turned up—it denotes that its owner has a weak mind, sometimes coarse, and generally playful, pleasant and frolicsome. A pale nose denotes egotism, envy, heartlessness. The quick, passionate, sanguine man has a strongly colored nose of uniform shade.—London Tit-Bits.

A Great Military Feat.

Nonza, in Corsica, is very proud of the story of a great military feat performed there long ago. It is told in "Romantic Corsica," by George Renwick.

The French in 1768 had subjugated all the northern cape with the exception of the tower of Nonza, which for a considerable time sustained a close siege. Attacking parties were driven back by a fierce fire, but at last the garrison agreed to surrender if allowed to march out with all the honors of war. This was conceded, and old Captain Casella appeared, staggering under a load of muskets and pistols.

"Why is the garrison so long in coming out?" asked the French commander.

"It is here, sir," replied Casella. "I am the garrison."

Needs No Lightning Rod.

A building 9,000 feet above sea level should be protected by lightning rods, one thinks, but the astronomical observatory at Mount Etna has not and does not need such protection. The observatory is near the summit of the volcano, and the stream of vapor constantly rising from the crater acts as a natural conductor, draining the electricity out of the clouds, so that lightning is seldom seen there.

INJURIES

FROM EMERY WHEELS AND OTHER GRINDING OR POLISHING MACHINERY

Most Numerous in Ohio—Four Men Per Day Partially Disabled for Life, Statistics Show.

(Associated Press Telegram) Columbus, Jan. 22.—Emery wheels and other grinding or polishing apparatus are the most dangerous machinery. This is shown in a partial report on industrial accidents in Ohio during the year ending June 30, 1917, made public today by the state industrial commission. The figures were used as the basis for a number of new "safety first" charts displayed at the second industrial safety exposition which opened today at Cleveland.

Grinding caused the most deaths and permanent disability cases last year. The figures are: 10 deaths, 25 permanent disability cases, 423 temporary injury cases, 14 deaths, 58 permanent disability cases, 843 temporary injury cases.

The industrial commission paid compensation for 15,225 industrial accidents during the year with total awards of $2,396,122. This included 482 deaths with awards of $1,147,000; 11,287 cases of temporary injury, with awards of $1,492,000; 1643 cases of permanent partial disability, with awards of $723,900; and 12 cases of permanent total disability, with awards of $277,000. One man per day was disabled totally for life. Four men per day were partially disabled for life. One man every seven minutes in each day of 24 hours received temporary injuries which caused them to quit work. The total time lost caused by accidents is estimated at 18,226 years.

"The national guard is, other than the regular army, our only present force of even partially trained soldiery. Nothing should be done to discourage its work, but everything on the contrary to stimulate to encourage it. But such encouragement should be in the direction of transferring it wholly into the service of the federal government and not of perpetuating it in its present status. Particularly, to grant federal pay to the individual militiaman for his weekly service rendered to the state, seems to blur the great lesson which is emerging from the European war. It is to yield again to the theory that we can induce men to serve their country, not as a duty of patriotism, but for pay."

Mr. Stimson endorsed as "sound and intelligent" Secretary Garrison's plan to bring the regular army up to its proper basis, but added that, personally, he thought the regular army now should be made larger still.

John New York National Guard, had prepared a paper of "coast defenses," and Captain Matthew E. Hanna of Stamford, Conn., was to discuss "the cost of the army." Various other phases of the defense problem were taken up by William C. Church, editor of the Army and Navy Journal, New York; Major General E. A. McAlpin, president of the Boy Scouts of the United States; General E. W. Nichols of Lexington, Va.; Frederick L. Huidekoper of Washington, D. C., Capt. Granville Perceps, and Eric Fisher Wood of New York.

The congress will close tonight with a banquet at which Senator Lodge and former Attorney General Williams were to be the principal speakers.

Senator Root's letter endorsed Secretary Garrison's contention that the National Guard could not be depended on for the army's increase.

"It is idle," wrote Mr. Root, "to expect the National Guard to furnish any sort of a national defense and any such attempt would inevitably result in the failure of the whole movement and the waste of all the energy and effort devoted to it. The National Guard are primarily the troops for state purposes, and they must continue to be so."

"There are good things in Secretary Garrison's plan. The doing of them would be progress in the right direction. Don't lose these good things even though you may find that you can't do them yet."

After the banquet he took the first steps of any sort at a program that is to be held. Toward the end of the night he said: "The army must be able to maintain its discipline and its administrative and executive functions of an adequate though small, regular army."

PRESIDENT WILL MAKE SPEECHES FROM PLATFORM

THROUGH MIDDLE WEST IN TOWNS WHERE NO FORMAL ADDRESSES

Are Scheduled—Telegrams for Bates—Will Sleep Each Night in Private Car.

(Associated Press Telegram) Washington, Jan. 22.—Detailed plans for President Wilson's forthcoming trip to the middle-west to speak on preparedness indicates that he probably will make a number of "platform speeches" in towns and cities not on the itinerary for formal addresses.

The trip from Chicago to Des Moines will be made on February 1, and the president is expected to speak briefly in some of the towns through which his train will pass. A decision has not been reached as to which route would be selected for that day. On the return trip to Washington, February 3, the president will pass through Indianapolis in which place a stop of about 30 minutes probably will be made. Mr. Wilson will not have time to get off his train but will speak from his car.

As a result of the publication of the president's itinerary telegrams poured into the White House today urging him to make more stops.

The president is expected to sleep in his private car every night except the two spent in Chicago and Cleveland. He is reluctant to travel on Sunday, and will therefore spend January 30, in Cleveland resting.

ARREST IN TOLEDO MAY GIVE CLUE TO OPIUM SMUGGLING.

(Associated Press Telegram) Toledo, O., Jan. 22.—In the arrest last night of Edward Bryant, federal officers believe they have a clue in a scheme to smuggle large quantities of opium into the United States from Windsor, Canada.

A code telegram found on Bryant's person following a raid last night indicates according to the police that Bryant has an accomplice in Windsor smuggling the drug here where Bryant disposed of it.

TWO BEAL LAW ELECTIONS MAY BE ON PROGRAM

Petitions for those who seek to be delegates to the state conventions when presidential electors will be nominated, must be filed with the board of elections on or before February 24, according to Clerk Michael Sachs. These candidates will be voted upon at the primaries which will be held April 25. Alternates as well as delegates will be selected at the spring primary.

The delegates so selected will nominate presidential electors and construct the platform. The state convention date and the place of meeting have not been selected by the party leaders.

Besides this presidential primary, the regular state primary when state, district and county officers will be nominated, will be held on the second Tuesday in August, which will be August 6.

Two special elections under the Beal law are in prospect in the county this spring, though no official notification of such elections has been received by the election board. It is understood that the village of Utica will soon call a Beal law election. The town was voted wet two years ago by a majority of 13 votes. Licking township, which includes Jacksontown and territory bordering on Buckeye Lake, is also understood to be contemplating an election under the local option law. This township was voted dry in a spirited fight two or three years ago.

COLD WAVE

SWEEPING EASTWARD FROM ROCKY MOUNTAINS BRINGS HOPE OF RELIEF

From Flood Conditions in Northern Illinois—Thousands Homeless—Fear of Epidemic.

(Associated Press Telegram) Chicago, Jan. 22.—A cold wave, said by the weather bureau to be sweeping eastward from the Rocky mountain region today was held out as bringing hope for relief from flood conditions which prevailed in Northern Illinois and neighboring states yesterday as the result of heavy rains following a rapid rise in temperature.

Thousands of persons temporarily were made homeless and the property loss is estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars. Several cities are also facing a possibility of epidemic as the result of pollution of their drinking water by the flood.

Reports reaching Chicago early today told of extensive damage in the territory within a radius of fifty miles of Chicago. Hundreds of farms in the Fox, Desplaines, Rock and other river valleys are inundated and although the waters are receding guards still are being maintained at bridges to repair any damage or spread the alarm should they be swept away.

Joliet, Aurora and Elgin, Ills., suffered most from the flood. Streets and basements were flooded, lowlands inundated and residents driven from their homes.

In Chicago sewers overflowed and hundreds of basements were flooded. Telephone service suffered when the conduit tunnels were filled with water and subways under railroad aqueducts were flooded so that traffic through them was impossible. City officials warned city residents to boil all drinking water to allay all possibility of a typhoid epidemic.

WATERS REDEED AT AURORA, ILLINOIS.

(Associated Press Telegram) Aurora, Ills., Jan. 22.—The Fox river which flowed into its banks yesterday into the Aurora waterworks pumping station, cutting off three-fourths of the city's supply, was back in its channel today, having gone down more than four feet since yesterday afternoon, when ice in the stream was dynamited for miles up and down its course. The pumping station resumed operations last midnight. Thousands of persons, driven from home in lowlands yesterday began to go back today.

PRESIDENT TAKES CRUISE WITH WIFE; PREPARING SPEECH

Washington, Jan. 22.—President and Mrs. Wilson aboard the naval yacht Mayflower were cruising leisurely today, down the Potomac bound for the waters of the Chesapeake Bay. The trip, which is to occupy two days, was taken to enable the president to prepare in New York, January 27, at the Railroad Business Association's banquet and to draft tentatively others he is to make on national preparedness on his middle-western trip.

The president carried with him a mass of data from the navy and war departments which he was to use in dictating the addresses to his stenographer. He is keeping in wireless communication with the White House.

Plans for the president's western trip which he finally approved just before starting on the cruise last night call for stops at Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Chicago, Des Moines, Topeka, and Kansas City. The trip is to begin January 28.

LOCAL GREEKS ARE INTERESTED IN COMING BOUT

Ever since the wrestling game was revived here last December by Paul Bowser and elevated to a higher plane in the estimation of sport loving people, local Greeks have been interested in the game and particularly when it concerned one of their own nationality. Thursday night's event brought them out in large numbers when Poullos, clever Louisville youth, lost two falls to Bowser. His work by no means disgraced his fellow countrymen. He showed Bowser some new tricks and Bowser was compelled to admit that Poullos had ability if he did lack endurance.

So interested have Newark Greeks become that they secured an agreement with Bowser to meet a man of their selection. Last week they notified Bowser that they had secured James Prokas who would come from Boston and who holds a belt awarded to him as the champion middleweight Greek wrestler of America.

George D. Faller, proprietor of a restaurant is behind the movement to bring Prokas to Newark. He succeeded in making up a purse sufficient to pay Prokas' railroad fare to Newark.

Prokas has a reputation among wrestlers and does not come to Newark as an unknown. The match is a direct result of Bowser's accepting challenge issued shortly after the first Pardello bout, that he was here to represent Newark on the wrestling mat and that in so doing, he would meet all comers without regard to championship claims or reputation.

His sincerity was tested when he took on Pardello, who weighed nearly 30 pounds heavier and wrestled him to a standstill, in 90 minutes of furious work. After this match he accepted Pardello's challenge for a second match though he was in no way bound to do so.

Bowser doesn't fear defeat and he doesn't say this boastfully. He explains that what he means is that under all circumstances he will put forth his best efforts to win and if he fails he will take his medicine like a real sport.

He has never parleyed with a wrestler seeking a match. He has been seeking the best wrestlers of attainable and has succeeded in getting some of the best in the game. In every case, his opponents have gracefully if reluctantly, admitted his ability.

"My policy will continue to be," said Bowser, "to get the best talent possible. I believe Prokas will be as good or better than any of those I have met with the probable exception of Albright. He is a man of experience and the fans who have turned out to see the other bouts, I believe will find entertainment when Prokas and I meet next Thursday night."

It is understood that Greeks from Columbus, Mt. Vernon, Coshocton and Zanesville and other nearby towns will come to Newark and the match to see their fellow countryman in his bout with the Newark Favorite.

CONSTABULARY IS FAVORED BY ADJ. GEN. HOUGH

Washington, Jan. 22.—The next Ohio legislature will enact a law creating a state constabulary, if it heeds a recommendation which Adjutant General Benson W. Hough intends to make. General Hough arrived here yesterday to transact business before it was department and announced that it is his purpose to seek the creation of a state constabulary such as Pennsylvania has. He is opposed to the present system, which makes the militia do strike and police duty, and he would transfer that duty to the state constabulary when it is created. He believes that a constabulary consisting of 250 men would be sufficient.

"If we had had a constabulary of that size to send to Youngstown when the recent strike was in its incipency, it would soon have had the situation in hand, in my opinion," he said.

General Hough favors national legislation relieving the militia of strike duty. He also is very much opposed to the continental army.

"The continental army and the militia cannot both exist," he said. "If Congress creates the continental army it will, by so doing, sound the doom of the militia, and I believe the continental army would be a failure."

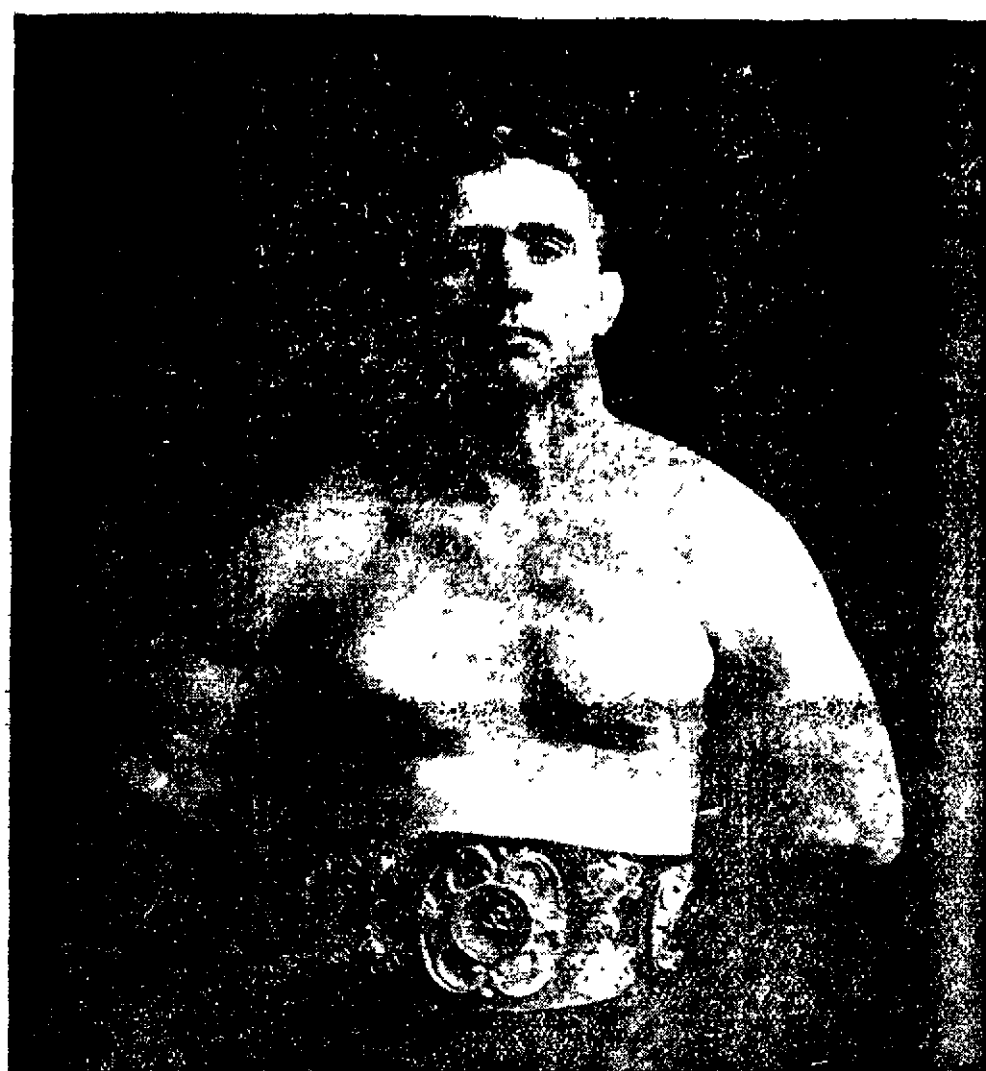

The Poor.
We all love the poor. It would be entirely unnecessary, if not positively cashish, to say that we hate the poor. But there are two kinds of poor—the individual poor and the collective poor. It is not the individual poor that we love; it is the collective poor. It is not the poor that we know and see, but the poor that we do not know and have neither time nor inclination to look at. We are afraid if we see them we shall cease to love them. We never say, "God bless the coal heaver or the motorman." For them we find our exertions for not contributing to our comfort just so and so on.

It is with great fervor, however, that we can say, "God bless the poor," because the poor do not interfere with our comfort to the slightest degree.—Life.

Antagonists.
How many who have deemed themselves antagonists will smile hereafter when they look back upon the world's wide harvest field and perceive that in unconscious brotherhood they were helping to bind the selfsame sheaf!—Hawthorne

ENDURANCE TEST WON BY NEWARK IN BASKETBALL

Friday night's basketball developed into an endurance contest in which Newark High school's team was victorious over Zanesville by a score of 40 to 23. The high temperature and humidity, with the lack of ventilation in Hickey Hall made the game an unpleasant affair for players and spectators alike. Both teams suffered from the heat and perspired freely. At the end of the first half exhausted players stretched full length on the floor to recuperate.

When the game opened, both teams started with a world of speed. The first part of the 20 minute period went through with a rush and was full of exciting situations. Zanesville players located the basket early in the period and before Newark got her bearings, the visitors had scored six points with three splendid shots.

Newark quickly rallied her forces, and within the next few minutes of play had tied the score which seemed until near the end of the period when Newark took a three-point lead. The half ended with a score of 19 to 16 in Newark's favor.

In the second half, Newark showed superior endurance and came back in good shape. The score was quickly run up to 40 points while Zanesville was able to add but seven points to the 16 registered in the first half.

Orville Rawlins, the Newark forward, was not in as good form as usual, and scored but 26 of his team's points. He has been out of the game all week with a bad leg, and his speed suffered last night as a result. Mayer, another regular, was out of the game on account of grip. The lineup:

Newark (40) Zanesville (23)
Rawlins, f. f. Ramsey, Grav, f. f.
Jones, f. f. Reinhold, f. f.
F. Jones, c. c. Lenhart, c. c.
McLaughlin, r. g. Jackson, r. g.

Field goals: Rawlins, 13; D. Jones, 4; F. Jones, 2; Reinhold, 6; Jackson, 3; Lenhart, Ramsey, Foul goals: D. Jones, F. Jones, Lenhart.

Officials: Mr. Reinhold of Newark and Mr. Thiele of Denison.

WILLARD WILLING TO MEET ANYBODY: WANTS TWO BOUTS

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 22.—With the intention of concluding arrangements for a championship bout in the spring and perhaps another fight later in the summer, Jess Willard, heavy-weight champion, and Tom Jones, his manager, left here last night for Chicago, where they will meet Jack Curley.

"I'm ready to meet anybody they bring out," Willard asserted. "I want at least one fight before I begin my engagement with a circus, and maybe another one if the dates are satisfactory."

It was intimated that, should the signature of Frank Moran not be forthcoming to the proposed contract for a bout in New York, Fred Fulton might be substituted.

Gets Another Offer.
New York, Jan. 22.—James Johnson, manager of Madison Square Garden, announced last night an offer of $35,000 to Jess Willard and $20,000 to Frank Moran for a 10-round boxing match here the latter part of March.

Denison Is Ready For Wesleyan Game At Granville Gym.

Granville, Jan. 22.—Denison students here anxiously over the gate rail in Cleveland hall yesterday afternoon, endeavoring to read the "Big" game prior to the Ohio Wesleyan game tonight. Denison has its entire squad of regulars in good shape for the big test. The contest is the main topic of conversation here. "While although not entirely recovered from the grip, played well in practice yesterday against six-foot Benedict at center. Lang and Jenkins occupied the forward places with Lind and Steward at the guards. Coach Livingston dove the point through a fast hour of preparatory work.

Preparations are being made for a capacity crowd. Wesleyan students are expected to support their team in goodly numbers.

WOULD RELIEVE NATIONAL GUARD OF STRIKE DUTY

Columbus, O., Jan. 22.—State militia officers today were much interested in the proposal of adjutant General Hough to create a state constabulary which would relieve the Ohio National Guard of such duties as suppression of riots which occurred at Youngstown. Legislative action would be necessary for the establishment of a state constabulary of probably 250 men, such as exists in Pennsylvania.

Adjutant General Hough was in Washington today to confer with the war department. A dispatch from there said he declared himself in favor of national legislation to relieve state militia of strike duty. He also expressed hostility to the proposed continental army plan, saying it would mean the doom of the militia.

SOLDIERS WANTED NOT TO ARGUE WHEN ORDERED TO STRIKE

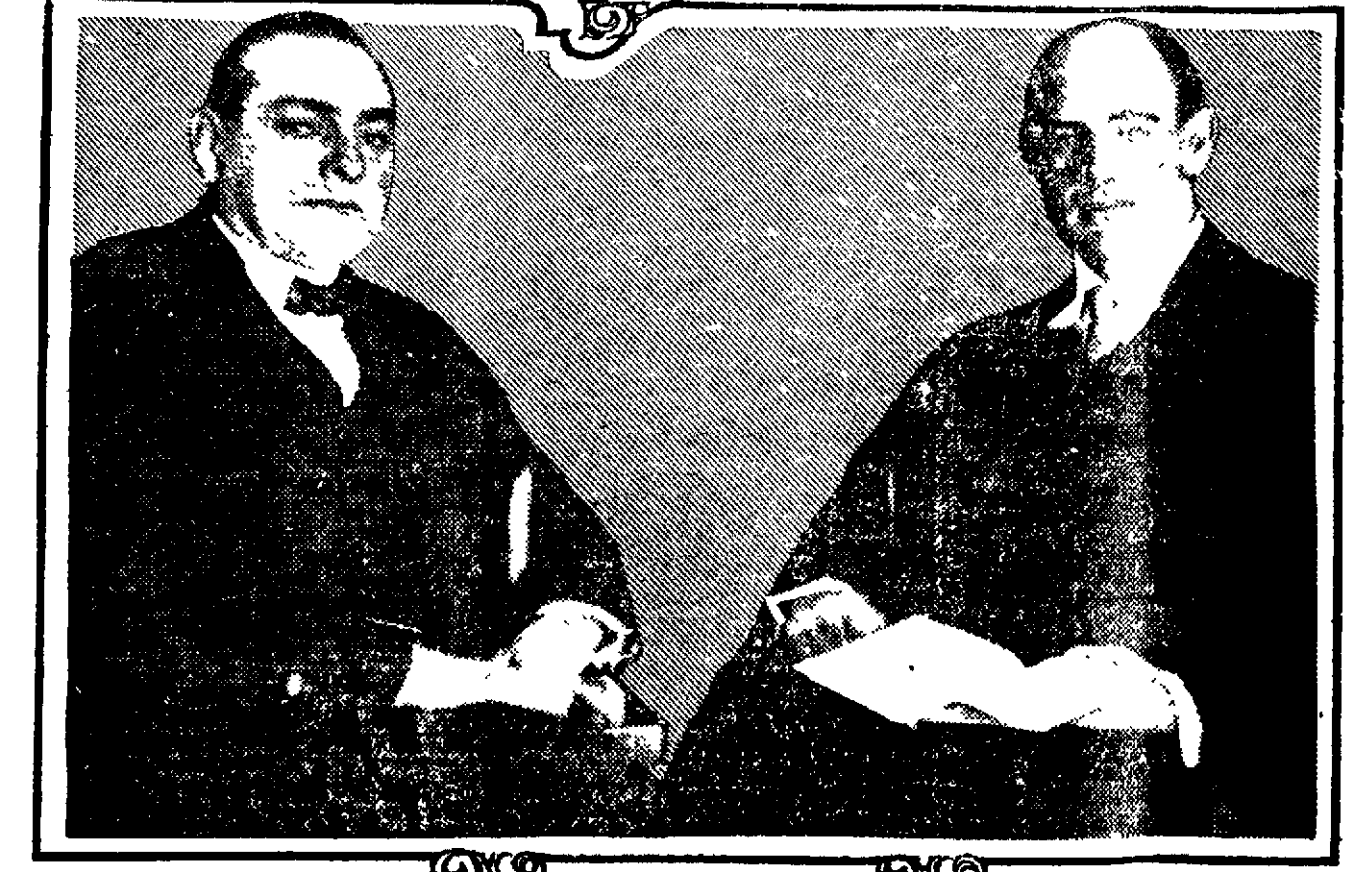

Washington, Jan. 22.—Federal army officers commanding troops wherever strikes or riots may occur are warned by instructions announcing today at the war department against participating in questions of a political character, or the equity of disputed issues existing between the parties to a controversy. In announcing this policy, the department indirectly repels to criticisms raised by labor organizations and officials against the conduct and management of soldiers doing duty in riot or strike zones.

WILLIS OFFERED SURE CURE, FOR AXMINSTER RUG

SUFFERING FROM CASE OF TONSILLITIS, WOMAN GUARANTEES TO ALLEVIATE

Strange Requests from Many Sources Come in Ohio Chief Executive's Mail.

Columbus, O., Jan. 22.—Here is a letter received in today's mail at the governor's office:

"Governor Willis:—I notice by the papers you had tonsillitis recently. I have a recipe for tonsillitis or quinsy that is a sure cure and if used according to simple directions you need never suffer with it again and if you will send me a small figure all over effel velvet or axminster rug, 12-15 feet, for my dining room, I will send you the recipe and guarantee a sure cure. Your druggist can prepare it for you. I know you will thank me, and trusting you will take my offer," (Name of woman.)

Another letter received recently said:

"I am writing to you to see if you could please send me to Hot Springs. I have got the rheumatism and have had it for one year. The hospitals never done me any good. I am 23 years old, born in Bridgeport, Ill., and been in Cincinnati 12 years. I have not got any money or I would not ask you to send me. So please do me this favor. Will be very grateful to you."

These are only ordinary examples of requests and complaints which reach the governor's office daily. Many show pathetic hallucinations. A few are threatening requests for instructions concerning how to find a wife or a husband are frequent. One man asked how he could compel his neighbor to tear down an unsightly fence. Another requested a "special gold-bordered marriage license" be sent him. A thrifty housewife complained that the utilities commission should investigate an overcharge by a drayage firm for moving her piano.

A man who doesn't believe in acknowledging disease protested against the maintenance of quarantine at his house where there was a case of chicken-pox.

An employer queried whether he could legally supply his men with liquor when he made them work overtime.

Parents often write for information concerning their runaway sons or daughters. Scores try to borrow money. One man said he needed "50 cents by return mail." Benevolent persons are generous with their health hints, particularly after the newspaper has announced the governor or other state officials are ill.

Most of these idiosyncratic episodes never reach the governor. They are side-tracked by Ralph Dodds, correspondence clerk or by Captain Miletus Garner, the commission clerk. Occasionally one is shown to Governor Willis for his amusement.

How Prussia Was Reforested.
There was no need of celebrating Arbor day in Prussia in the days when Friedrich Wilhelm I. was king, for that monarch had a plan all his own by which he replenished the forests and kept the country well supplied with fruit trees.

According to Das Buch der Alle, the king, having observed that there was a great dearth of fruit and oak trees in Prussia and not being willing to undertake the tremendous expense of reforesting the country himself issued an order to all clergymen that, after June 21, 1720, they should refuse to perform any marriage ceremony unless the groom could produce evidence that he had just planted six fruit trees and an equal number of oaks. If it was in winter or in the middle of a dry summer, when plants would not grow, the groom had to produce and lay aside a sum of money sufficient to cover the cost of the trees and promise to plant the required number when fall or spring came.

The edict worked wonders. The next generation in Prussia had no lack of fruit and oak trees.

The Things That Come Hard.
"I am happy because it is so easy for me to write," said a beginner to one of the great masters of French prose.

"Go home and pray," said the master, "that it may come hard."

It is so of writing, so of thinking, so of life. The easy thing is barely worth doing. The hard thing is worth doing, though the end be failure. A goal, to make which one fairly tugs at life and yet misses, is better than a victory softly won.

So often the man who speaks easily tells us least, while the sparing words one wrenches from a taciturn speaker are imbedded in thought. Shakespeare said that Gratiano talked more than any other man in all Venice. But he compared his speech to a bushel of chaff in which lay hidden a single grain of wheat and that not worth the finding.—Toledo Blade.

Sound Advice.
If you are in the habit of being an innocent bystander take treatment for your innocence or cease bystander.—Judge.

We cannot live better than in seeking to become better nor more agreeable than by having a clear conscience.—Socrates.

ESTABLISHED IN 1820

Entered as Second Class Matter
March 10, 1882, at the postoffice at Newark, Ohio, under Act of March 3, 1879.

The principal thing in recovering from the grip is getting over the medicines they give you.

Conscription is never resorted to
in this country except to draft a man
for vice president once in four years.

There is an insistent demand
from the sporting fraternity for a permanent open season on Mexicans.

It must seem deadly monotonous
in a munitions factory when 6 p. m. arrives without the customary daily explosion.

The politicians are being converted to the idea of the budget system,
so that the resulting economies will leave more money for "pork."

A college may not acquire a reputation from the intellectual quality of its graduates, but the fame of a good ball team can't be hid.

No party or candidate can possibly win the 1916 election without guaranteeing higher prices to the farmer
and lower prices for every one else.

The old theory was that the place of a woman is in her home. Now it seems to be down at the church dishing out a 50 cent oyster supper
for 20 cents.

The war stocks that were bought by the gullible public on the assumption that the war would last forever, are now beginning to come down to their real value.

The fact that the politicians can fill any job without any experience of the work, convinces many of our thinkers that you can get a modern army without training any soldiers.

There is a widespread feeling that the scalps of a number of Mexican generals elevated on high poles would make the most attractive decoration that could possibly be erected along our southwestern boundary.

Rough and Tumble for Boys.

The death of a freshman in a class
fracas at the University of Pennsylvania will set many anxious parents to worrying about the perils their boys have to meet. Probably this particular form of sport was better suited to the time when student groups were smaller. The life can be crushed out of a fellow in a scrimmage of the big classes of the modern college, as this sad event proves.

At the same time the ruling out

British colonial governor of Massachusetts; died 1639.

Raisin, Mich.; Great Britain's Indian allies defeated General Winchester's American forces, who resulted to the number of about

1870—Massacre at Isandlwana, South Africa, of nearly 600 British soldiers by Zulus under Cetewayo.
1915—German airships dropped bombs
at Dunkirk, France, and the aviators of the allies bombarded Ghent
and Zebrunze, in Belgium. The British, supported by gunboats, near Kurma, at a junction of the Euphrates and Tigris rivers.

about the shortage of men, widely

commented on at the time.
It also complains because the department has reduced complements of mine-layers and destroyers, points out defects in the present system of target practice and expresses the opinion that Mr. Daniels' compulsory education order for enlisted men has celebrated "make-the-navy-a-school" policy has not brought satisfactory results.

Now of course Mr. Daniels dislikes to have his "subordinates" refrain from disagreeing with him publicly.
And presumably Mr. Daniels found Admiral Fletcher's disagreement with his policy, heralded as epoch-making in naval progress, especially annoying. Nevertheless, the American people are entitled to know when their servants who dovate their whole lives to a scientific profession disagree about its affairs
with a gentleman whose devotion to it is a temporary incident of party politics.

The expert is always entitled to be heard against the amateur, and when the amateur resents, having been heard and seeks to prevent it he merely convicts himself of an incorrigible egotism. Moreover, it is perfectly certain that every interested foreign government has long known every defect in our navy alleged by Admiral Fletcher. They why seek to keep the people, the legal "superiors" of Mr. Daniels, in ignorance of these defects? Why all this foolish mystery-making about things either well known or too dumb to be?

Proper government proceeds by knowledge and by discussion. It can proceed in no other way without wisdom and efficiency. Efforts to get it to proceed in any other way always result in confusion of public opinion and in running in circles. It is to be hoped that we shall now have an end of the habit of mysteriously cooking in the Navy Department and elsewhere. The sooner we have the secrets we shall be able to proceed with knowledge to efficient and rational results.

Elihu Root's Warning.

(New York World.)

In his speech at the Bar Association dinner, pleading for the interests of American traditions and institutions, Elihu Root dealt chiefly with the menace of undisciplined foreign immigration. Referring to the millions of immigrants who have poured into this country from Europe, Mr. Root warned his hearers that they "will change us unless we change them."

Yet Mr. Root might have said that the most ambitious attempt that has yet been made to overthrow American traditions and Europeanize American institutions was undertaken under the leadership of men of native birth and generations of native ancestors. The principles of the Progressive party in 1912 were admittedly Prussian. What the party emphatically described as "social justice" was a class-war scheme to Prussianize the United States in all essentials except the establishment of monarchy. That party was able to poll 4,000,000 votes on such an issue, which showed either an apalling state of public ignorance or an appalling state of public indifference in regard to the foundation principles upon which the Republic was erected.

All that Mr. Root said of the immigrant is true; but the American who has forgotten the meaning of his institutions may be more dangerous than the immigrant who never knew the meaning of them. It is as Mr. Root remarked, "We have enjoyed liberty and order so long that we have forgotten how they came."
We have forgotten how much blood and iron went into the winning of our liberties, and why the sacrifice was made.

There are millions of Americans
today who seem to think the Republic
was established as an annex to European governments, and they are vituperatively ashamed of their country as a disloyal colony.

Solidarity of citizenship is the most essential form of preparedness
that any country can achieve, and it is the one that the United States is furthest from attaining.

(Boston Evening Transcript.)

When a coroner's jury brings in a verdict of "death from mental assault," as one has in Chicago, it is time to take seriously into account
the destructive and depressing effects of cruelty other than physical.
In a way one cannot when attention
is called to them by so-called mental scientists. If we can come clearly to realize that the adverse operation of one mind upon another does not act directly, the one influencing the other as in the phenomenon of hypnosis, but only indirectly in the response of one mind to another through the medium of the influencing mind's spoken words, we need not feel that taint of unpleasant mystery which otherwise renders the whole subject disagreeable and incredible.

No amount of evil thinking can directly influence the mind or the health of another, except as it is expressed in words or in action. Once so expressed, it may immediately induce in another a state of depression during which, as a recent Lowell Institute lecturer has shown, the body may not only cease to make its normal stimulating secretions, but also begin the manufacture instead of poisonous secretions, as under the stimulus of great fear or hate. Considering the complications of the Chicago woman's case, her depleted physical condition at the time when the husband is charged with having "mentally assaulted" her, it certainly seems that the jury judged more accurately in the assigning of mental cause for death than it would had it named any specific physical trouble.

Careless Days.

tors came over with the first settlers."
"Very likely. We had no immigration laws then."—Baltimore American.

Spirit of the Press

Another Government Failure.

When a government ventures into regular business operations in competition with private parties it usually makes a poor showing. Such has been the case with the attempt to supply state insurance to the people of Wisconsin. The State Insurance Commissioner's chief anxiety has been to get the state life insurance
will be a failure unless a large appropriation is made for placing agents throughout the state to push for business. He says that if the state life fund were that of a private company he could not want a license to operate. The State Insurance Commissioner is said to believe that state life insurance is impracticable, even with the establishment of agencies. In contrast with this government fiasco the leading insurance companies are making steady gains.—Herald in Leslie's.

Job's Easy Lot.

We don't know just what kind of a climate they had in a country,
but we judge there was none of this dreadful freezing and thawing, as he had vast herds of camels and mules and sheep and pigs that ran out to pasture the year round,
and likely the hero of that example
of patience that has been handed down from generation to generation
for so many hundred years didn't know what a chillblain was. About all Job had to vex him was boils.—
Liberty Press.

German Rural Credit.

According to David L. Collin, the German Land Credit system of land mortgage bonds, tested for 151
years, is the only one which will float and maintain its value without government guaranty, the only one which will get the farthest money,
as it has in Germany, at from 2 to 4 per cent, with amortization at the end of 20 to 50 years, the only one which avoids the hazards and expense of engaging in the banking business, and can be conducted at a trifling expense; the only one which will furnish bonds which in time of war and panic will float at interest
lower than government bonds; the only one which will furnish safe investments for every investor. It cannot be put in effect without important changes in our state laws.
Prof. Brodwin of Halle University, Germany, states that "the Land-credit system is standing the test of this war as it has at all other times." The states are rapidly adopting rural-credit plans, which are the best they find it possible to frame at the moment. It will be a pity if, when the national government acts, it does not choose the best possible system.—Farm and Fireside.

Rippling Rhymes

Looking Ahead.

In future years we will not boast,
as we are boasting now, that we had forebears in the host upon the Mayflower's prow. Nor will we boast of Norman blood, or how our sires shed gore, when they crossed over the raging flood, with Bill the Conqueror. We'll say, when gathered round the board, "By Weden and by Thor." Our fathers sailed with Henry Ford, and put an end to war! They cranked their ship with Henry Ford, and sailed for Peace's sake, with Henry at the steering wheel, his foot upon the brake.
Across the briny deep they slid, and tangled their peaceful lines, and when the ship began to skid, they calmly changed the tires. The monarchs in their anger roared, above
the martial din, "What have we done that Henry Ford should come to rub it in?" The soldiers, with their crimsoned hands, remarked,
"By Mother Goose, the stuff's all off when Henry Ford, and turns his white dove loose!" The warred armies lost their grip, the battleships sailed home, when Henry toiled his good tin ship across the leagues of foam. And o'er the world the White Doves soared, the Dove men wanted for; our fathers sailed with Henry Ford, and put the lid on war."

WOMAN TO BE TRIED FOR MAKING FIGHT FOR BIRTH CONTROL

Mrs. Margaret Sanger.

Suffragists, lawyers and physicians thronged the federal court in New York city a few days ago to hear the testimony in the case of Mrs. Margaret Sanger, charged with distributing through the mails literature dealing with the control of childbirth. Trial was postponed to Jan. 24. Mrs. Sanger is acting as her own attorney in the case.

PRECIOUS POSTAGE STAMPS.

Issues That Bring Joy to the Heart of the Philatelist.

One of the questions asked us most frequently is, Which is the rarest of all the stamps? There are not a few claimants for this honor, all of which are exceedingly rare, stamps of which but a single copy is known to exist. Indeed, there is evidence which leads us to believe that some stamps were printed and used of which no copies at all are known to be in existence.

Of those stamps of which only one copy is known, the first is a postmaster's provisional issued at Boscawen, N. H. Another is a stamp from British Guiana. Only one copy of this is known and is in a celebrated collection in Paris, probably the largest collection in the world.

In 1893 the Niger Coast Protectorate issued a series of surcharged stamps, all of which are scarce, and some of them are in the ranks of the world's greatest rarities. This refers especially to the twenty shilling values. Of the 20 shillings, surcharged in violet, only five copies were ever printed; of the vermilion surcharge, only two copies, and of the black surcharge, only one copy.

As there is and can be only one copy of this last stamp, it is justly entitled to be considered the rarest of all stamps. It probably would not sell so high as the better known and more popular "postoffice" stamps of Mauritius. Yet of these there are known fourteen copies of the penny and twelve of the twopenny.—St. Nicholas.

LUCK IN A MISTAKE.

When the Famous Singer Albani First Went to London.

The curious story of Mme. Albani's first London engagement is as follows: Colonel Mapleson heard of her singing at a theater at Malta, and, thinking that she would be successful, he made her an offer through an agent of a contract to sing in Her Majesty's theater. She agreed to it and went to London, but on arriving there she told the cabman to drive her to the Italian opera house.

He, instead of going to Her Majesty's, took her to Covent Garden, which was also devoted to Italian opera. She was shown up to the manager's office and stated that she had come to sign the contract which Mr. Mapleson had offered her.

Mr. Gye, thinking to play a joke on his rival, Mapleson, made out a contract, and Albani signed it. Mr. Gye then told her that he was not Colonel Mapleson, but that he could do much better by her. He offered to tear up the contract if she liked, but told her that Nilsson was singing at Her Majesty's and would brook no rival.

Albani decided to let the contract stand and thus became one of the stars of Covent Garden, eventually marrying the son of Mr. Gye.—Westminster Gazette.

Fanny Dickens.

Fanny, the sister of Charles Dickens, was one of the first students entered at the old Royal Academy of Music when it opened its doors at Tenterden street in 1823, and at that time the students lived at the academy, only going home for the week end. "Every Sunday," Dickens told Forster, "I was at the academy at 9 o'clock in the morning to fetch her (Fanny), and we walked back there together at night." And the Sunday itself the two spent—in the Marshalsea prison, where their father and mother then resided, owing to Mr. Dickens having "failed to propitiate his creditors." While her father was still in prison Fanny won a prize at the academy, and the future novelist, then engaged in pasting labels on blacking pots at 7 shillings a week, was present to see her receive it.—Westminster Gazette.

A certain amateur aviator talked recently about a flying trip with a professional, when he fell 1,200 feet into the water without knowing it.

"I wasn't frightened," he said with a smile. "I thought that our swift descent was a piece of fancy flying. I am, in fact, as ignorant of aviation as the little boy was ignorant of English history."

"Describe the Order of the Bath," his teacher asked this little boy. "It's very ancient," he answered. "It goes back to the time when they didn't take no baths except by order."—Washington Star.

A Querulous Question.

"The sameness of these meals is getting on my nerves."
"I can't think of anything else," rasped his wife.
"You're strong for new styles in shoes, hats and ways of fixing the hair. Ain't there never any new styles in eatables?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

STYLES OF TODAY IMPORTED FROM THE SOUTH SEA ISLANDS

Baroness Irmgard von Rottenthal in garb of South Sea Islander and in her latest gown from Paris.

The 1916 styles are not new, after all, nor did they come direct from Paris, as many society leaders have been led to believe. Instead, they came from a place far from Paris as it is possible to be—the Society Islands in the South Seas. So declares Baroness Irmgard von Rottenthal, the famous dancer who is now in this country.

The road is to be constructed under the state aid plan.

Every Day Etiquette

"Is it proper for a lady to stand when being presented to a gentleman and should she extend her hand in greeting?" queried Mabel. "She need not rise unless the gentleman is a good deal older than she is and she extends her hand first, unless it is a young man when she merely bows," said her aunt.

Safety in the Home

Peruna—the Home Remedy

They know it improves the irregular appetite, aids the weakened digestion, soothes and heals the inflamed membrane, relieves the coughs and colds, and corrects all catarrhal conditions wherever located. Forty-four years of reliability have established it as the Ever-Ready-to-Take household remedy.

That's why so many speak well of it. We have hundreds of testimonials like this:

Mrs. James F. Summit, 1006 E. Eighth St., Muscatine, Iowa, writes: Peruna has cured me. For years I was practically as invalid. I was induced to give Peruna a trial, and found very quickly that it was helping me. I am now well and happy. We have a baby now, which we believe is the direct consequence of my improved health. If Peruna had not cured me I should never have had him. I thank God for Peruna. I hope my testimonial will be of benefit to other women who are children simply because they are in a wretched physical condition. I will answer any letter from a woman anxious to know more about my case. I recommended Peruna to a friend whose daughter had a very severe case of Bronchitis. The doctors did not seem to do her any good. She used Peruna and is now well and strong. My husband's health is so much improved by Peruna that we would not be without it in the house.

Granville, Jan. 22—Mrs. W. H. Johnson, Mrs. R. S. Colwell, Mrs. J. M. Swartz, and Mrs. C. W. Henderson and Mrs. J. E. Cochran entertained the women of the Social Union in delightful and hospitable style Friday afternoon, January 21. The social rooms of the Baptist church were appropriately decorated for the occasion. The round tea table was centered with narcissi, and around this the ladies were grouped during the serving of the dainty refreshments. At the business session which preceded the social many matters of importance received attention in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. T. A. Lewis. Mrs. C. W. Chamberlain read the report and several letters of thanks for flowers sent by the society. Roll was called and names of several new members added to the list. The president announced that the annual election of officers would take place in February and asked the earnest co-operation and support of the organization for the new administration, stating definitely that the society must elect a new president, as she has served for years. This session closed with a brief talk by Mrs. A. M. Brumback on "Pearls"—pearls of great price—which she said she had received during these past weeks of prayer in the church. Mrs. Brumback is the leader of the Spencer Bible class, and is one of the most eloquent speakers in the church. Miss Imogene Hamblin, accompanied by Mrs. W. P. Ullman at the piano, sang most effectively, "Give My Life for Thee." After which the company repaired to the dining room for tea and conversation.

Mr. William P. Kerr of Boston, Mass., arrived in Granville this morning enroute for the west, and will spend a short time here visiting at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Colwell in South Prospect street. Mr. Kerr who is a son of the late Hon. W. P. Kerr, president of Granville Female College for many years, was born and educated in Granville having left when his mother moved with her family to Boston. While in Denison, Mr. Kerr was a prominent member of Sigma Chi fraternity, which now occupies the old Kerr home in West Broadway.

The condition of Mrs. E. F. Hobart, who has been seriously ill with grip, at her home on the Newark road, is much improved, and it is hoped that she soon will be convalescent.

Mrs. Resticau of Columbus, who has been the guest for a few days of Mrs. J. S. Jones at Bryn Du, returned home yesterday.

Mrs. Malcolm E. Stickney returned last night from a week's visit with her mother, Mrs. E. W. Bell, in Mt. Vernon.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. A. P. Nichol in College street Friday afternoon, Jan. 21, at 2:30. Miss Gertrude Good led the devotional service, after which Mrs. William Howe took charge of the business session. The election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: Mrs. William Howe, president; Miss Minnie Twining, vice president; Mrs. Anna Davies, second vice president, Mrs. E. P. Cook, secretary, Mrs. F. P. Robinson, foreign treasurer, Miss Amelia Bancroft, home secretary, Miss Isabel Raymond, secretary of literature. The program committee consists of Mrs. E. P. Cook, Miss Minnie Twining and Mrs. Anna Davies, the social committee, Mrs. J. W. Rhorer, Mrs. A. P. Nichol, Mrs. Fred McCullom. Following the business session Miss Good took charge of the program which proved exceedingly interesting. Mrs. McCullom presented the topic "The Treasury," and Miss Good gave a reading on the same subject. Mrs. Alice Brooks gave interesting extracts from articles relating to the work in China, and Miss Good closed the program with a fine paper on China.

The social hour which followed was greatly enjoyed, at which time delicious refreshments were served by an efficient committee.

In Milady's Boudoir

By Gwen Sears

To correct that faulty standing and sitting posture and fill out your chest practice the following exercises. The best style of dress to wear is the bloomer costume, the bloomers coming above the knees. Long stockings and thin, flat soled shoes complete the costume. If the exercises are taken at home you may wear a combination undershirt with stockings and broad soled, heelless slippers. The lighter you dress the better. There should be no sense of weight or restriction about the neck, waist or shoulders.

You should ventilate your lungs three times a day at least, the first thing in the morning, again about the middle of the day, and at night just before retiring.

For the exercises take the first position with the feet nearly together, the chin down, arms extended downward with the backs of the hands touching. The chin should then be raised with the arms so that, in the second position, the head is held erect.

Now the movements of the hands are carried upward still further and separated. From this position the hands should be brought downward in the large sweep of an arc to the original position. Begin to inhale forcibly while the arms are being brought down.

For extending the depth of the chest here are some good exercises: Stand erect with heels together and hands resting on hips. Straighten out the left arm and extend it perpendicularly up at the side of the head and at the same time carry the right leg outward and upward as far as possible. Then lower the leg and arm, returning to the original position.

For the second position start as in the first. Then take the same movements with the right arm and left leg as were taken in the first position. The arm and leg should be raised and lowered simultaneously. These exercises increase the vertical diameter of the chest and strengthen the muscles of ordinary and enforced respiration.

Your Boys and Girls

Real rebellion in a child comes from a sense of personal injury, and no matter how faulty his conception may be, he has a moral right to an understanding of the reason for punishment. To a child who is old enough to reason, mere submission to a demand, without the consent of the will, is worse than useless as far as the moral effect upon him is concerned.

We often see mothers whipping the hands, or spanking little ones of less than two years of age. There is no doubt that the average child begins to comprehend the meaning of minding at a very early age. Still, it is a revolting idea that such a baby should be subjected to such a process of hardening, which may soon result in the necessity of frequent whippings.

Silence—"An honest man never blows his own horn." Cynicus—"No, an honest man is generally too poor to own one."

A woman can always forgive a man who makes a fool of himself, provided he makes a fool of himself over her.

Weekly Market Summary

Associated Press Telegram
New York, Jan. 22.—Subject only to occasional interruption, the first four days of the week recorded a succession of selling movements in the stock market and an irregular shrinkage of prices which was partly arrested yesterday. The decline first manifested itself in the more unstable specialties but gradually embraced standard issues, including rails.

External conditions contributed in a large measure to the unsettlement, although the shorts were unusually aggressive. Latest aspects of the European situation including England's proposed rigid blockade, Austria's invasion of Montenegro and the turn of events in Greece were taken into serious account, while affairs in Mexico were reflected in the further depression of Mexican shares.

In the stock market itself, the event of the week was the Bethlehem Steel $30 dividend, which was received with some disappointment in speculative circles. Prices reached lowest levels on news of the dividend, but revived on intimations that other war contract companies are sure to distribute earnings to shareholders.

Next week's quarterly meeting of the United States Steel Corporation is awaited with great interest because of the many confusing rumors prevalent in connection with the change of status of the common stock. In conservative quarters the belief is that some rate of dividend will be declared but that it may fall below the more extravagant hopes of the bull party.

All lines of trade and industry work continues at high pressure. Metal markets are buoyant, with sales of iron running well into the second quarter of the year. In fact, spot copper is not obtainable and prices for May and June delivery range from 23 1/2 to 25 1/2. Other metals are following the lead of copper, lead, spelter and allied products selling at highest prices of recent years.

Wall Street
(Associated Press Telegram)
New York, Jan. 22.—Gains were general at the opening of today's market but material advances were again confined to the more speculative issues. United States Industrial Alcohol added two points to yesterday's sensational rise, touching 168 on the news that the company had received an enormous order for its product from the French government, but soon fell over eight points. Coppers rose variously in further response to the extraordinarily favorable conduct in that industry and war shares as a whole showed fractional improvement. Oil, and Mercantile Marine Preferred, as well as American Woolen and Corn Products also were higher. United States Steel fell four to 480, Canadian Pacific and New York Central were the only features of the railway group at moderate declines.

Today's brief session was extremely dull and completely lacking in outside interest. Even the trading element showed no disposition to undertake fresh commitments, except in some of the specialties which recently formed the center of speculative activity. United States Steel was heavy and obscured by the decline of the oil. Products and New York Central. Alcohol rose two points to 168, fell back to 160 and later recovered all its loss. Central was heavy, declining 1 1/2 to 103 1/2, on rumors throwing doubt on the prospect of an increased dividend. American Woolen, International Nickel and half a score of war and semi-war issues were higher, while coppers reflected the unparallelled demand for that metal. The closing was very irregular.

Bonds were steady.

Chicago Grain
(Associated Press Telegram)
Chicago, Jan. 22.—Wheat today ran up to new high record prices for the season, disheartening which caused the upturn was based on an opinion from Liverpool that the maximum of the advance had not yet been reached. At first, however, the market here was of a wavering sort as a result of a report that the vessel rates from Argentina had been lowered and that large shipments were expected from Argentina and Australia.

Liberal export business and talk of a possible damage to the wheat crop put bears at a disadvantage. Nevertheless July was comparatively weak. Quotations closed unsettled, varying from 1/2 to 1/2 off to 3/4 up, with May at 1.32 1/2 and July at 1.35 1/2.

After opening 1/4 to 1/2 lower, with May at 1.31 1/2 to 1.34 and July at 1.33 1/2 to 1.35 1/2, prices fluctuated over a range of more than a cent and then rose to well above yesterday's finish.

Colder clear weather suitable for curing and shipping eased the corn market.

Industries were about the only buyers. Opening prices, which showed a 1/2 to 1/2 decline, were followed by a slight rally.

Oats held relatively firm. Trade, though, was well divided.

Higher quotations on hogs lifted provisions. Offerings were scarce.

Effects of Lying.
Lying is a great sin against God, who gave us a tongue to speak the truth and not falsehood. It is a great offense against humanity itself, for where there is no regard to truth there can be no safe society between man and man. And it is an injury to the speaker; for besides the disgrace which it brings upon him, it occasions so much baseness of mind that he can scarcely tell the truth or avoid lying, even when he has no color of necessity for it, and in time he comes to such a pass that as other people cannot believe he speaks the truth, so he himself scarcely knows when he tells a falsehood. As you must be careful not to lie, so you must avoid coming near it. You must not equivocate, nor speak anything positively for which you have no authority but report, or conjecture or opinion.—Sir Matthew Hale.

Bits About Beasts.
You think you know something about animals, eh? Well, let us put your knowledge to a few simple tests.

Frogs, to begin with. Can they breathe with their mouths shut? Certainly they can. As a matter of fact, they always do. If they kept their mouths open they would suffocate.

Next, hares. When do they close their eyes? Answer, never. You see, they haven't any eyelids, so they can't. But they have a thin membrane, which performs the service of eyelids when they are asleep.

What is the color of a horse's eyebrows? That's a difficult one. Think hard and then learn that a horse hasn't any eyebrows.

You may like to know, in addition, that turtles and tortoises have no teeth; that parrots, unlike the majority of birds, can move both mandibles of their beaks, and that fishes never masturbate. They simply haven't time between breaths.—London Answers.

Skeletons.
Skeletons are used in cemeteries, laboratories and museums. After battles they are frequently bleached before being stored away for the winter.

Everybody has a skeleton, without which one would fall around like a jellyfish, and instead of going to bed at night, one would have to be hung over a clothesline. Indeed, life without a skeleton would be one long, dreary flop.

Skeletons come in a lot of assorted bones, which are more or less securely fastened together by the department store clerk who fastened them together before they went out of the shop. When the first skeleton was constructed one of its bones got away and has caused much trouble ever since.

Some wear clothes over their skeletons.—Life.

Pessimistic.
"What is an antiquarian, pa?"
"A man who, not satisfied with his present troubles, is looking for some in the past."

Her Excuse.
Widow (to dressmaker)—You must really wait awhile for payment for the mourning dresses. We are still too sorrowful to consider financial matters.

VERY WELL, BARNEY, YOU MAY GO TO YOUR LODGE BUT FOR THE FACT THAT COUSIN KATE IS COMING TO SPEND THE EVENING WITH ME, POSITIVELY I WOULD NOT ALLOW YOU TO GO OUT AND LEAVE ME HERE ALONE.

There's Always a Reason -- And a Good Reason for one man owning a home and an automobile and living in comfort while his neighbor is always in debt—

The one man has watched his pennies as carefully as if they were ten dollar bills, the other has spent his money as fast as he earned it.

ANOTHER LEAP-YEAR VICTIM.

More Raps.

In July, 1836, General William Henry Harrison, who had been spoken of as a candidate for president, visited Philadelphia. Many of his political friends were at the steamboat wharf to meet and escort him to his hotel. He was placed in a four horse carriage, but after proceeding a short distance the horses became unmanageable and had to be taken out of the harness. The people began to draw the carriage, and there was a call for ropes. They were soon procured, but proved too short, and as the enthusiasm increased the cry arose, "More ropes!" and still more ropes. The Democrats saw only the funny side of the case and adopted "more ropes" as a ridiculing slogan. It did not last long and could not have hurt Harrison much, for four years later he was elected president.—Philadelphia Press.

A Great Help.

"Did you have any one help you when you were hanging the pictures?"
"Oh, yes! My wife stood around and asked me what I was swearing at!"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Some men do not make fortunes for the sake of living, but, blinded by avarice, live for the sake of money only.—Juvenal.

Why the Sea Has Pearls.

A few weeks ago I was talking with a woman of deep religious sentiment who was in great distress because her very young baby had died before it could be baptized.

I was led to ask natives of Norway, Finland and other places their views on this very delicate question, and so I came across a bit of very pretty Sicilian folklore.

To the babies in Sicily life is very kind and death is gentle. Those who die unbaptized are doomed to wander, but do not wander grieving. Madonna Mary sends to them every week end an angel, who lays aside his lily crown and romps with the dead babies. When he leaves them he gathers up in a golden chalice all the tears they have shed during the week. These he casts in handfuls into the sea, "and that is why the sea has pearls." I like that story.—Vancouver World.

Nothing Rude.

"I suppose your daughter will start her scholastic career with some special rudimentary studies?"
"No, indeed. There ain't going to be nothin' rude about it. She's goin' to take only polite literature!"—Baltimore American.

Put Stomach in Fine Condition

Says Indigestion Results From An Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflame the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy mass in the chest, we belch up gas, we cruritate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescent and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices. Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

Coughs and Colds are Dangerous. Few of us realize the danger of Coughs and Colds. We consider them common and harmless ailments. However statistics tell us every third person dies of a lung ailment. Dangerous Bronchial and Lung diseases follow a neglected cold. As your body struggles against cold germs, no better aid can be had than Dr. King's New Discovery. Its merit has been tested by old and young. In use over 45 years. Get a bottle today. Avoid the risk of serious Lung ailments. Druggists.

Theatres

"The Kleptomaniac."

"The Kleptomaniac," a delightful comedy in one act, by Margaret Cameron, will be given by the junior class as a curtain raiser next Tuesday night when "Rosemary" is presented. The Kleptomaniac has been a great favorite with dramatic societies.

Mrs. Jack Burton, a young society matron, is noted for her habit of losing or misplacing her possessions. The play opens as she has returned from a concert and while chatting with a friend she suddenly discovers that she has lost her purse containing $100 and all her rings. Several of her friends join her in the search and she is led to suspect a lady who sat beside her at the concert. The police and detectives are notified and many amusing complications result.

Those who have parts in the play are Josephine Hull, Esther Hartshorn, Maxine Davis, Virginia Warner, Helen Peck, Josephine Hulshizer and Myrtle Ross.

Rehearsals are being held for both plays and a pleasing performance is expected. Seats are to be reserved at Erman's drug store beginning Saturday, Jan. 22. The play will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

William Farnum, a "Cave-man"

Nominally. William Farnum, star of the William Fox masterpiece, "A Soldier's Girl," is the most modest of any stage or screen celebrity. Actors and actresses are not proverbially shy, and it is generally admitted in well-informed circles that Thomas Gray had neither in mind when he penned the lines:

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear;

"Full many a flower is born to blush unseen,

Actors who blush, if there are any, and actresses who exude a sweetness, and there are many, always choose some less isolated place than "unfathomed caves" and some more appreciative an audience than "desert air" for the display of their efforts. Yes, actors are far from the shrinking type inssofar as publicity is concerned. Mr. Farnum, however, cares not for newspaper publicity.

Mr. Farnum is the bane of newspapermen; not that he isn't liked by them—for they lionize him—but he is a most difficult person to interview. Woe to the cub reporter who flashes paper and pencil on this celebrated star!

Mr. Farnum will be seen at the Auditorium Sunday matinee and night.

"Excuse Me." Produced by Henry W. Savage, featuring George F. Marion, supported by Robert Fischer, Harrison Ford, Vivian Blackburn and a rollicking cast.

"Excuse Me" is, if anything, funnier on the screen than it was on the stage. The run starts when Henry Mallory, U. S. A. receives orders to join his regiment which is to embark for the Philippines. The Overland Limited is the only train that will enable him to reach the coast in time to escape a court-martial. Having a little time to spare, he persuades Marjorie to elope with him and reserves two berths. They reach the train in time, but haven't time to get married. Jimmy Wellington, who stands six feet two, guzzles too much, so his wife takes the Overland for Reno, telling him she goes to Paris for the year. He gets sore and takes the same train, for the same place and purpose.

ELECTRIC FLAG ON TOLEDO COURTHOUSE

Electric stars and stripes on courthouse at Toledo, Ohio.

The Toledo courthouse was one of the first public buildings in America on which was erected an electrically lighted flag to carry its lesson of patriotism by night as well as by day. Public officials say the electric flag is most impressive, because it burns its folds into the eye of the passerby with the dark background.

The Reverend Doctor Temple tiring of the monotony of Ypsilanti, elopes and takes the Overland to the coast. There's another girl aboard, a former sweetheart of Malory's. With this cargo in charge of a worthy porter, they start. The happenings en route are screamingly funny. Every one does something that had been better left undone, and the porter must bear the brunt of it all. See it at the Grand next Monday and Tuesday.

"Jordan Is a Hard Road." That the love of a father for his daughter can transform him from a dangerous bandit to a noble character.

actor of rare self abnegation is shown in the Sir Gilbert Parker-Triangle play, "Jordan is a Hard Road," coming to the Auditorium theater Monday and Tuesday. Campeau plays the role of the father, Bill Minden, most effectively. Dorothy Gish is Cora Findley, the daughter who has been brought up in ignorance of her father's identity.

The Gem Sunday. Elmer Glyn's famous novel "Three Weeks," has been the most discussed novel of the past decade. Paul, the woe of a runaway queen, has taken his place among the heroes of fiction. Sonia, the royal mate of a dissolute monarch, young, alluring, adventurous, is now a modern symbol of a love that scorns to count the cost.

In the film play the author has added to her creation in a prologue that intensifies the thrill and adds color and vivacity. Sonia runs away from her castle and her king. She encounters Paul in the restaurant in Lucerne, Switzerland. The two, a queen without a country and a king without a throne—fall madly in love. She seeks to flee from temptation. But an accident halts her flight and the inevitable next meeting occurs.

The tiger rug tryst of the pair in the queen's apartment in Lucerne is reproduced as in the novel.

Miss Madeline Travers, who appears in the role of the temperamental queen, is regarded as one of the most attractive of the country's youngest stars. Mr. Mahlon Hamilton, who plays the role of Paul, is one of the most popular leading players of the native stage.

See it at the Gem Sunday.

Alhambra Sunday. Cyrus Townsend Brady never wrote a more absorbing book than his "Island of Regeneration." And there was never a story written by anyone that offered greater possibilities to film-drama.

A beautiful girl—running away from the unwelcome attentions of the owner of the yacht on which she was a guest—cast upon a tropical island in the Southern Pacific; the sole inhabitant, a man who had lived alone there since early childhood, his only remembrance of language the "Now I lay me" taught him twenty years before by his mother. Imagine what a story could be built upon an idea like this. And by such a master-hand as Cyrus Townsend Brady.

And think of this story Vitaphoned! You know Vitaphone productions. You know the genius of J. Stuart Blackton and Albert E. Smith. You know the scale on which they do things. You know the Vitaphone resources and facilities that are at their command.

Only One Athens Now.

There is and has been for many centuries only one Athens. But antiquity knew no fewer than nine cities or towns of that name in various parts of Greece, and even in the time of Plautus it was sometimes felt necessary to distinguish the great one as "Attic Athens." It was natural that Greek cities should take their name from Athena, the goddess of wisdom, warlike prowess and skill in the arts of life, who, according to some legends, herself founded the City of the Violent Crown. Others ascribed the naming of the city to Theseus or other mythical kings. The "s" of the termination is a real plural, for the city was given a plural name (Athenai), as being made up of several constituent parts.—London Chronicle.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD. Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen, mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

Ah! how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.

War Upon Pain. Pain is a visitor in every home and usually it comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy. It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful.

Mervin H. Solister, Berkeley, Cal., writes: "Last Saturday, after tramping around the Panama Exposition with wet feet, I came home with my neck stiff that I couldn't turn. I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. To my surprise, next morning the stiffness had almost disappeared, four hours after the second application I was as good as new."

Y M C A NOTES

K. I. Dickerson, E. S. Randolph and J. N. Pugh were appointed by President C. C. Metz to act as a committee to plan for the coming state convention to be held here Feb. 19 and 21. This committee had a meeting Monday and divided the work.

Charles Allen, in charge of the physical work, was confined to his home Wednesday and Thursday with a severe attack of the grippe.

A post card and pamphlet were received from Board Member S. E. Alban, showing the bigness of the Grand Rapids association.

The advisory committee of the Christian Men's Union met in the lobby Monday evening and laid some definite plans for meetings to be held in the near future. The meetings will be addressed by local speakers and will be preliminary to having several prominent out-of-town speakers.

Frank Hoop, who has done some stenographic work at the office lately, left the first of the week for Akron, where he expects to take a position with one of the rubber companies.

Several letters have been received from Wilson Galloway. All seem to give a very glowing account of conditions in Flint, Mich., a booming city of 60,000 people and a first class new Y. M. C. A. building, with a big work.

The following new members have been added to the membership in the past few days: Arthur McFarland, Leonard Whitehill, Paul Mossman, Horatio D. Jones and Elmer Long.

Lloyd Brooks, who came to the city from north of town to work at the lunch counter, was compelled to return to his home on account of illness. Donald Power and Charles Mayer have given assistance with the work this week.

The Senior gym class has been growing in size and now has a sufficient number of basket ball players to form a good team. Any who wish to take part in such a game should apply for membership.

A Junior basket ball team from Granville will play a team from the Junior department of the association Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Y W C A NOTES

Please pay "well" attention. On Tuesday, Feb. 2, we are going to burst into our jubilee celebrating. So you are most cordially invited to buy a ticket for the modest sum of 25 cents and come and play together. May we say that this is not a money making performance and that we respectfully request you not to buy a ticket "just to help the Y. W. C. A." "What we want most of anything is to have every ticket sold because just that many of our members are vitally interested in coming to the annual meeting and hearing all the talks on the various departmental activities, not just dry, statistical reports.

Tickets will be on sale at once by the Y. W. C. A. and by the membership committee. No tickets sold after Saturday, Jan. 29. "Buy early and get into the rush."

We have now just 539 paid up memberships. How many will show their interest in the association and the work which they help to support by being present at the biggest gathering of the whole year? We vote for the renewal of board directorships and also for new members of the board. We need your vote.

To those whose memberships have "suffered a relapse," we say, "Come also to the feast—it will surely prove a tonic."

The vesper service Sunday, Jan. 23, is in charge of two earnest Y. W. C. A. girls, Charlotte Sigman and Helen Nichols. Miss Nichols will provide the music and Miss Sigman will speak. Come out and help the girls and enjoy the "get-acquainted" hour after the service. The time, Jan. 23, 4 p. m.; the place, Y. W. C. A. Everybody welcome.

Mrs. Daniel Shepardson gave a wonderfully helpful talk to the I. V. Bible class on Tuesday night. "The Call of the Shepherd" was her subject, and she told of the life of the shepherds in Palestine and interpreted the 23rd Psalm by comparing it with shepherds and the sheep of the Orient. We wish we could have such a beautiful message brought to all the girls of the city, not just alone those in Bible classes.

We have missed the happy smile and cheery words of our president, Mrs. Jones, who has been ill for several days. We are glad for her recovery.

The I. V. Bible class invites you to hear Mrs. Jones' second talk on "Christ in Art" Tuesday, Jan. 25, at 7:15, at Y. W. C. A.

The C. I. Scofield Bible class, recently started on Saturday nights at the Y. W. C. A., is growing rapidly both in interest and in numbers. You had better get into the class before

THIS $1.50 RECORD IS REALLY WORTH $320

It has recently been computed that Josef Hofmann, master pianist of the world, receives $2500 per hour for his stage appearances. On this basis, Hofmann's latest Columbia recordings just on sale—$1.50 for two selections—gives the purchaser in reality $320 worth of the master's technique!

Sternberg's "Etude in C Minor" and Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in G Minor" are the two selections. Hofmann's interpretations are triumphs in technique. The rushing rhythms of the "Etude" and the austere Russian motif in the "Prelude" are intensely interesting piano-forte compositions.

Another world master appears in the February list of the Columbia company, with selections even more widely known. Pablo Casals, the Spanish wizard of the "cello," plays that supreme example of the simplicity of genius, Bach's "Air for G String." Coupled with the "Air" is Liszt's "Liebestraum." Dream of Love, a work of creative art recognized the world over as one of the most exquisite gems of melody ever produced, a favorite with musicians and music lovers of every country. The spirit of the master is eloquently interpreted in the playing of Pablo Casals.

The soprano superiority of Corinne Rider-Kelsey is splendidly shown in her singing of Braga's "Angel Serenade" and the vivacious and dashing concert favorite, "Chanson Provencale."

Cyril Maude, the famous English actor, has made two interesting monologues, "Dinky," a conversation between two cockney longshoremen, and "A Telephone Reconciliation," which features a conversation overheard in London during the great war.

Brilliant performances of orchestral overtures are given in Von Suppe's "Peasant Overture" and "Morning, Noon and Night Overture," two of the most popular overtures in the musical field.

There are many other instrumental, vocal, popular and dance selections, all well worth listening to.

HOW TO CLEAR AWAY PIMPLES

Bathe your face for several minutes with resnol soap and hot water, then apply a little resnol ointment very gently. Let this stay on ten minutes, and wash off with resnol soap and more hot water, finishing with a dash of cold water to close the pores. Do this once or twice a day, and you will be astonished to find how quickly the healing resnol medication soothes and cleanses the pores, removes pimples and blackheads, and leaves the complexion clear and velvety.

Resnol ointment and resnol soap stop itching instantly and speedily heal skin humors, sores, burns, wounds and chafing. Sold by all druggists.

SOAP FOR BABY'S TENDER SKIN.
The regular use of resnol soap is usually enough to prevent those distressing rashes and chafings to which babies are subject. This is so, first, because resnol soap is absolutely pure and free from harsh alkali, and second, because it contains the resnol medication, on which so many physicians rely for skin troubles.

OLD FOLKS NEED "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

SAITS, CALOMEL, PILLS ACT ON BOWELS LIKE PEPPER ACTS IN NOSTRILS.

ENJOY LIFE! DON'T STAY BILIOUS, SICK, HEADACHY AND CONSTIPATED.

Get a 10-cent box now. Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept alive. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

Many Weather Changes.
The thermometer this morning at the Central station registered 52. Newark has had a variety of weather in the past few days. The early part of the week witnessed the coldest weather of the winter, six below zero. By C. T. BRICKER, Pharmacist
Good health is the treasure money cannot buy. Right living and plenty of outdoor exercise is the best medicine man can take. It keeps the bowels active, the brain clear—helps a man along the road to success.

Indoor workers and others of sedentary habits should look to West Baden Sprudel Water, because this natural laxative water is the best substitute for outdoor exercise. It cleanses the entire intestinal tract, straightens out the stomach, corrects liver trouble—banishes headache and other upsets caused by sluggish bowels.

West Baden Sprudel Water now is bottled at the Mother Spring. Druggists everywhere sell the large size at 35c and the small at 15c. A glassful once a week will keep you in good condition, and if you truly value health, you will keep a bottle of this natural laxative water handy for emergency.

C. T. Bricker is representative of his profession. He is a pharmacist in whom hundreds of men and women place entire confidence. Mr. Bricker is proprietor of the City Drug Store, 7 Hudson avenue. This store is a very popular place in this community and Mr. Bricker's suggestion to drink West Baden Sprudel Water should be heeded by every reader of this paper.

Cincinnati, O., January 22.—A case was placed before the Ohio industrial commission today following investigations by Stanley S. Stewart, deputy in charge of the Cincinnati offices in the claim for compensation for the death of Erwin Schwan of Dayton, Ky. Schwan was a machinist employed in Cincinnati, and had been sent to Philadelphia to install machinery in the plant of a Philadelphia distilling company two weeks ago. According to information obtained by the investigation, Schwan started across the Susquehanna river with four other men whom he had hired, apparently to carry some parts of machinery or supplies back to the plant. Three of the men were drowned. Schwan and one other managed to swim to a large block of ice. Both died of exposure. As all the witnesses are dead the investigators have not been able to determine whether Schwan was in the performance of his duties when the boat was overturned.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The British embassy today issued this statement based on its dispatches from London:

A distinguished Belgian Jesuit, Father Benusse lately received by the Holy Father, has given the following account of his audience to a Dutch chaplain in the Belgian army on his return.

"The Pope told me and told me to repeat it along the trenches to men and to officers and even to the king himself, that he considers Belgium has the right to complete reparation from Germany and that he will never consent to offer his good offices for re-establishment of peace unless Belgium has all her territories in Europe and Africa restored her with plenitude, her liberties and her international rights as they existed before and this without prejudice to her claim for an adequate indemnity to be fixed after a minute inquiry and inventory of all public monuments destroyed after rebuilding factories and private houses and restitution all private property."

"The Times" correspondent at Saloniki reports that the examination of enemy consulates archives is still incomplete and likely to last long owing to mass of documents. Among documents found at consulate of his Catholic and Apostolic majesty Austria are fifteen hundred copies of long Arabic proclamation to chiefs Senussi, inciting them to holy war on non-Germanic Christians. They were found in sealed parcels addressed to Austrian military attaché, Athens.

"Of all instruments, Allah has chosen for protection of our religion surest is German national. In these circumstances we have realized imperious necessity of proclaiming holy war. In northern Africa, the most powerful ruler and one possessing greatest authority in Muslim world is his Excellency the Imam illustrious exemplar, champion of Islam, in the cause of Allah, who is our lord and master, the sure guide of all elect. This leader is bred in truth of the Koranic law and his soul shining with its pure effulgence has undertaken the task of purifying all corrupt souls and directing them in paths of life revealed by holy book given all Mussulmans."

"There is evidence that this proclamation was produced in Germany, a country whose monarch is always invoking God."

Christening Boats.
The modern custom of christening vessels is without doubt an adaptation of an ancient custom, just as so many of our other customs and habits have been adapted from ancient ones. The ancients used to place the image of a titular deity at the stern of their vessels, in the tutele, or shrine. Do you remember that the boat mentioned in the twenty-eighth chapter of the Acts, the boat that carried Paul from Malta to Rome, was "under the sign of Castor and Pollux"? It was, so says Acts. The ceremony of breaking a bottle of wine on the bow of a new vessel as it is launched is another ancient adapted custom, for the ancients offered a libation to Neptune or Poseidon, who ruled the seas, as they launched their boats.

Ex-change.

Babylonia.
The northern part of Babylonia is generally dry during the greater part of the year. The lower part, near the junction of the rivers, is generally a great malarial swamp overgrown with reeds. In the springtime one may sail almost anywhere across the country from the Tigris to the Euphrates, and in the dry season great herds of camels, buffaloes, donkeys, sheep and goats graze over the same place.

His Opposite.
"They say people with opposite characteristics make the happiest marriages."

CONTRIBUTIONS WAR SUFFERERS ARE SOLICITED

Next Thursday, January 27 is to be Jewish Relief day having been so designated by President Wilson.

Already large sums have been received in New York and other cities in the hope of securing by next Thursday ten million dollars. Two men in New York have each given a hundred thousand dollars.

Louis Marshall of New York chairman of the American Jewish Relief Committee for sufferers from the war has appointed Levi Hirschberg, proprietor of the Great Western store, as agent for Newark and Mr. Hirschberg announces that contributions may be left at his store or at the office of the Newark American Tribune or the Advocate. Contributions in any amount are solicited. The need is urgent. Women and children are starving and the appeal is directed to all.

Chairman Marshall is very active in raising money to help both the Jewish and non-Jewish sufferers in war-ridden Europe. In his communication to Mr. Hirschberg he says: "This action by the President is without precedent in American history, and the nation, in this evidencing its sympathy for our brethren, and urging all to join for the relief of the Jews in the war zone, has set Jews of America an example, which they dare not ignore."

"Let January 27 be solemnized and he made a special day for contributions from Jew and Christian alike—from rich and poor. Thus stall and all live up to the spirit and intent of the President's proclamation."

The Advocate, The American Tribune and the Great Western store in South Park Place have been designated and appointed special treasurers for "Relief Day" in this city. Contributions will be received at these places.

100-BARRELL WELL SHOT THURSDAY NEAR BLACK RUN

What may prove to be a 100-barrel oil well was struck Thursday on the Margaret Fleming farm, near Black Run, by the Columbus Gas & Fuel Co.

The well was shot Thursday night, and it has been flowing at the rate of 100 barrels a day. The Black Run oil field now has three producers, counting the last well drilled, and three more wells are being put down.

(Continued from Page 1.) which he said covered the circumstances of the fight as they were related to him by Bernardo Duran and his brother, who participated in the shooting and by a squad of Carranza soldiers who arrested the Mexicans. The general said that if found guilty the Durans would receive prompt punishment.

Akers was shot in the back while riding a horse that also carried his companion, Lawrence. Lawrence reached Ysleta just eight hours after the shooting, and reported that the Duran brothers, one of whom is said to have served a term in the state prison of New Mexico, had been running American cattle across the border for the last few weeks.

Akers body was brought to Juarez early today for identification by a squad of police sent out by General Gavira.

Lawrence said they were trying to get away from the Duran horse when they were fired on and that Duran followed them on a horse for several miles before Akers fell. Duran who was found leading the horse on which the Americans had tried to escape declared he did not know the men were Americans until he examined the body of Akers.

After examining the secret service officials, and two prisoners, General Gavira at Juarez gave out the following statement:

"Three days ago, two Americans appeared at the office of the mayor and requested the aid of a police officer to look for six or seven cows that had been stolen from them. One officer of the secret service was furnished.

"About three o'clock Friday afternoon they went toward San Lorenzo where they learned some cows were hidden.

"The Americans went to the house and knocked, one of the Durans answered. He asked what they wanted. They told him they were going to see the cows. Duran requested them to show their authority. The Mexican officer said he did not have an order for search, but showed his star. Duran then said he would see what his brother thought of it, but in a few moments, the two Durans appeared on the roof and began shooting at the visitors. The two Americans and the Mexican officer returned the fire at the same time backing away in order to get to their horses, to flee. The Duran brothers started in pursuit, Frederico Duran after the Mexican officer and Bernardo after the two Americans. One American reached his horse.

"The Mexican officer was overtaken and relieved of his arms and badge. Duran exacted a pledge not to report the matter and was taking the officer back to the house, when a detachment of soldiers, detailed on duty in the neighborhood heard the shooting and started to investigate. The sergeant in command apprehended Frederico Duran and the Mexican officer. He said he had pursued the two Americans about three miles when he saw one of them fall. The sergeant brought to headquarters in Juarez the whole party."

The body of Akers was brought to Juarez this morning and later was to be turned over to a fraternal order of which he was a member. Bernardo Duran, the man who is said to have admitted killing Akers, escaped from the San Marcel convict camp of Santa Fe, N. M. January 10, 1914, where he was serving three to five years for cattle robbery, according to the local police.

Thomas D. Edwards, American consul in Juarez, said today that to the best of his knowledge Akers and Downs were not armed when they went to the bandit's stronghold.

"They came to me a few days ago and I told them to go alone, unarmed across the river and find the cattle, then to come to me and I would get an officer from General Gavira to go with them. Apparently they obeyed my instructions in everything except that they got the officer themselves. Had they come to me I would have obtained a military officer for them."

Audience Unaware of $7,000 Fire In a Theatre Building

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Chicago, Jan. 22.—A fire which, it is estimated today, did $7,000 damage in a tailor shop on the 14th floor of the Majestic theatre building, burned nearly an hour last night and audience in the Majestic theatre, which occupies the first floor knew nothing of the blaze.

Sincerity in Art.

Only an honest book can live; only absolute sincerity can stand the test of time. Any selfish or secondary motive vitiates a work of art, as it vitiates a religious life. Indeed, I doubt if we fully appreciate the literary value of the stable, fundamental human virtues and qualities—probity, directness, simplicity, sincerity, love. There are just as much room and need for the exercise of these qualities in the making of a book as in the building of a house or in a business career. How conspicuous they are in all the enduring books—in Bunyan, in Walton, in Defoe, in the Bible! It is they that keep alive such a book as "Two Years Before the Mast," which Stevenson pronounced the best sea story in the language, as it undoubtedly is.—John Burroughs.

How to Soften the Elbows.

Sometimes a woman who has a pretty arm is troubled with dark, rough elbows and coarse skin on the back of the arm just above the elbow. In either case it will take some time to restore the original soft white flesh. Purchase some liquid green soap, which is really yellow in color, make a good lather with it and rub it well into the skin. Leave it on for about five minutes, then rub it off thoroughly with warm water and dry very carefully. Careless drying of this part of the arms is the usual cause of the roughened skin. After the cleansing apply a skin food, rubbing it in well.

If the harsh surface does not yield readily rub the rough place with a pumice stone, then treat as described.—Woman's World.

Saved the Scene.

John Galsworthy, the English playwright, tells of the wit of an actor named Littledale, who in one play had to leap into a river to escape a wild beast.

"The stage was so arranged that the river was invisible. Littledale's leap usually ended on a soft mattress in the wings, while a rock was dropped into a tub of water to create a splash. Everything went on all right at rehearsal, and the night of actual performance came. When poor Littledale jumped he felt eight feet and landed on an eken floor with a crash.

"The audience set up a titter. But the heroic Littledale was quite equal to the occasion. 'Heavens,' he shouted, 'the water's frozen!'"

Much the Simpler Plan.

Mr. Newedd—Well, we are beginning here, however, and I presume the simplest plan will be for me to give you a regular amount every week for expenses. Just figure up what it will cost.

Mrs. Newedd—I could never do that in the world—so many things to count. You know—but let me see. Oh, I have it! I have thought of a much simpler plan.

"All right, my angel! What is it?"

"You figure up what it will cost you for car fare and lunches and give me the rest."—New York Weekly.

Florence Nightingale.

There is a story that after the return to England of the troops from the Crimea Lord Stratford at a dinner suggested that those present should write on a piece of paper the name of the person whose Crimean reputation would endure longest. When the votes came to be examined it was found that not a single soldier had received a vote. Every paper bore the same two words—Florence Nightingale.

La Politesse.

The Fair One—Oh, I wished I had lived a hundred years ago. The Other One—But then you would be a long time dead and would not be sitting here happily by my side. The Fair One—True, true! So I couldn't! Forgive me, dearest!—New York Post.

The Greatest Financier.

"Who was the greatest financier ever known?"

"Noah, because he floated his stock when the whole world was in liquidation."

Accommodating.

Jinks—Have you got quarters for a dollar, old man? Winks—My vest pocket is rather crowded, but pass it over and I'll try to make room for it.

Not a Gay One.

"No, indeed," answered Mrs. Dubwaite. "There's Mr. Dubwaite, for instance."

"Yes?"

"In his efforts to deceive me he even goes so far as to shed tears."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

EFFICIENCY

By a Non-Partisan Board, if Plans of Manufacturers' Association Carry.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Columbus, O., Jan. 22.—Invitations to a number of commercial agricultural and civic organizations of Ohio to participate in preliminary plans for an efficiency survey of the state government will be considered at a meeting of the executive board of the Ohio Manufacturers' Association next month, Secretary Malcolm Jennings announced today.

Plans for a non-partisan inquiry into the organization of state departments with a view to promoting efficiency and saving money were proposed at a recent annual meeting of the association, but no action was taken.

It is thought probable now that the manufacturers' association will call a conference of representatives of the grange, chambers of commerce and similar bodies, to arrange for financing and managing the proposed survey. The cost of this probably would be $15,000 and it would take more than a year to complete the work which would be done by efficiency engineers and a staff of assistants. Recommendations for curtailment of employees, combination of minor offices, co-operation of various state departments and installation of modern business methods then would be made.

"Care must be taken to exclude from this movement all traces of partisanship," said Mr. Jennings. "It must not be interpreted as directed at any party or administration, but intended only to show in a comprehensive way how much money could be saved taxpayers if the state's business were run as any corporation of similar size runs its business."

He explained also that the Ohio Manufacturers' Association has no thought of assuming direction of the survey. "It must be under the auspices of a sufficient variety of non-partisan interests," he said "to insure that nothing is sought but efficiency of the government machinery."

WOMEN REPORT ON RED CROSS SEALS.

A report has just been completed on the sale of Red Cross Seals during the Christmas season by the members of the Women's Federated Clubs of the city. A total amount derived from the sales was $278.71 and the amount of $20.55 was donated making a total of $299.26. Of this amount 20 per cent was sent to the Red Cross state headquarters to be used in state work and the balance of $243.51 is in the treasury of the federation and will be devoted to charitable work.

The work of selling the seals was conducted by a committee from the Federation of Clubs.

Urbana, O., Jan. 22.—Reports today were to the effect that the plant of the Urbana Tool and Die company, which closed when 35 employees, members of a recently organized union, quit work, would again resume operations Monday morning after a lull over Saturday. It was reported that the company and men would arrive at an understanding before that time. The strike has been attended by the utmost quiet. Mayor George A. Talbot has kept policemen about the plant while the strikers have quietly maintained a picket system. The company is making war munitions, and the strikers ask for increased pay and shorter hours.
